

DR. L. G. HARDMAN WINS RACE FOR GOVERNOR, DEFEATING JOHN N. HOLDER BY OVER 2 TO 1

Sutton Would Reorganize City Government

NEW CITY CHARTER URGED IN SPEECH BY SCHOOL CHIEF

"More Economical Operation" of City Affairs by Stopping "Duplication of Effort" Sought.

MAYOR IS HOPEFUL OF SECURING LOAN

Meanwhile School Board Will Today Again Discuss Plans To Keep Schools Open.

Reorganization of the city government under a new charter in order to permit more economical operation and to curtail duplication of effort was advocated Wednesday by Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, at a meeting of about 1,200 teachers of the system as a means of correcting ills of the present form of government and of placing Atlanta schools on a "living basis." This would result from diverting funds now "spent in duplication of effort and maintenance of numerous departments" and devoting it to school purposes.

Mr. Sutton advanced this theory at a meeting of the teachers called by him to explain the present school financial crisis which hangs over Atlanta and grows each day more acute. It came while Mayor Walter A. Sims was attempting to negotiate a loan of $500,000 with which to tide the department over a lack of funds to meet teachers' salaries. Unless some means is found to meet the payroll, 60-odd schools will be forced to close in the face of approximately 60,000 students.

The mayor Wednesday remained hopeful of getting sufficient signatures to the paper to get banks of the city to lend the sum necessary to assure continued operation of schools. He stated, however, that interest in the election had curtailed his activities and that the situation remained about Nominee Thanks People of Georgia and Pledges Self To Service of All.

Commerce, Ga., October 6.—(P)—"I am very grateful, indeed, for the expression through the people of Georgia in the interest of a plain, business administration, that has been so clearly demonstrated in both the first and last primary," said Dr. L. G. Hardman, the gubernatorial nominee, at his home here tonight.

"It shall be my purpose to carry out, as far as it is possible, as the governor of Georgia, the interest of the entire state; the looking for the development of the state in its great diversified resources and enterprises, giving to every individual and to every section and to every interest the greatest consideration based upon righteous, honest, business methods that will be conducive to the greatest possible progress and happiness of the whole people—giving the greatest consideration to both foe and friend; hoping Georgia may go forward in her development as never before, and asking the loyal support of every citizen to this end."

"My sole purpose is to serve Georgia and her citizens, in a manner conducive to the best interests of the state."

HARDMAN CARRIES FULTON COUNTY ALMOST 2 TO 1

Holder Carries Only Two Precincts by Narrow Margin, One in City, One Country.

Fulton county went for Dr. L. G. Hardman by nearly two to one in Wednesday's gubernatorial run-over primary.

Complete returns from Fulton's 26 precincts as compiled by The Constitution Wednesday night showed the following vote:

Hardman 5,063.
Holder 2,895.

Hardman carried every ward in the city with the exception of the fifth, and every country district with the lone exception of Oak Grove. Holder ran ahead by a narrow margin in both these places.

The country precincts which went for J. O. Wood in the first primary race for the governorship on September 8 went for Hardman nearly two to one Wednesday. Maintaining this lead as the big city wards reported, Dr. Hardman was never in danger of losing his commanding lead in Fulton.

A total of nearly 8,000 votes was cast in Wednesday's run-over as compared to approximately 19,800 in the race of September 8, attesting to the keen interest felt here in the contest. Weather was ideal for voting, and the polls were crowded. Some reduction in the total votes cast was caused by a cut in the number of city precincts, most of the wards having only two balloting places instead of three, as was the case in the September race.

This is the second time in less than a month that Dr. Hardman has carried Fulton county. It went into his column on September 8 when he polled 4,025 votes as compared to 3,793 for Holder; 2,323 for Wood and 684 for George H. Carswell.

FORMER WARDEN OF PENITENTIARY IS CRITICALLY ILL

Oklahoma City, October 6.—(P)—J. E. Dyche, warden of the Atlanta federal penitentiary during the administration of President Harding, was reported to be in a critical condition at his home here today. Dyche, who has been an outstanding figure in republican politics in Oklahoma for many years, has been in failing health for several months.

PITCHING DEBACLE WORRIES HORNSBY

Edge Now With Yankees as They Win First Game 10 to 5; Babe's Hitting Breaks Record.

BY ALAN J. GOULD.
St. Louis, October 6.—(P)—Babe Ruth led the Yankees out of the Missouri woods today with the greatest exhibition of home run hitting any world's series has ever seen.

Three battering-ram blows from the Babe's mighty bludgeon cleared all barriers and set fire to a Yankee attack that crushed the Cardinals by a score of 10 to 5 in the fourth game of the world's championship baseball battle. As a result the series is deadlocked again, at two victories apiece, with the fifth game here tomorrow.

Today was a field day for Ruth, the greatest he has ever had in world's series competition and one of the most spectacular of his wallowing career. His three terrific homers not only lifted the Yankees out of their hitting slump but figured in the shattering of world's series records.

Another record crowd for Sportsman's park, a jam that numbered 38,825 and broke yesterday's mark, came in the expectation of seeing the Cardinals continue their winning streak. Instead they saw Ruth lead an onslaught that started in the first inning and continued unabated through a hectic fray in which five Cardinal pitchers paraded to the mound. They saw a game of freak plays, filled with good and bad baseball, but most of all they saw the Babe at the peak of his glory. At the finish, these Cardinals . . .

K. OF C.'S TO BUILD $100,000 HOME

Plans Already in Motion for New Clubhouse and Drive for Funds Soon Begins.

Plans for a new $100,000 clubhouse for Atlanta Knights of Columbus were announced Wednesday by the Columbian Building association, holding corporation for the project. The Columbian firm also announced that plans have been submitted and that a drive will be put on shortly among the Catholics of Atlanta and surrounding territory to get the money necessary.

The building committee has received several estimates and the cost will be around $100,000. This is to be raised by a city-wide sale of stock, of which half of the amount has been subscribed by the Knights themselves.

Plans will embrace the most modern improvements in clubhouse construction and will have departments for women and boys in addition to the Knights of Columbus needs, proper. The front elevation as submitted to the committee is a radical departure from the type of club construction prevailing in Atlanta but it was found by a survey of this type of building in the north and east that the design is the most advanced accepted mode with just enough difference to make it appropriate for the south, leaders state.

The interior arrangement is in process of constant revision and the building committee has stated that when the funds are in sight it will be possible to keep within the sum subscribed and give stock holders something to be proud of.

The site of the new building is on Courtland street, between Baker street and Forrest avenue, and lots are being cleared for construction. Work will begin next month if plans of the building fund go forward with the speed that past subscriptions were made, leaders stated Wednesday.

$60,000,000 FUND OFFERED TO HELP COTTON FARMERS

Resources of Federal Intermediate Credit Bank To Aid Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

New Orleans, October 6.—(P)—Sixty million dollars, of the resources of the Federal Intermediate Credit bank of New Orleans, is being offered to cotton farmers of Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, through cooperative marketing organizations and agricultural credit bodies to aid in the orderly marketing of the cotton crop, it was announced here tonight.

The offer was embodied in resolutions adopted by the directors of the Federal Intermediate Credit bank here today.

While the resolutions apply only to three states in this district, it was explained that the three such banks in the south can make available to southern cotton farmers $150,000,000 for similar use.

The money can be obtained through the Cotton Growers' associations which operate without capital but require some time to perfect, or through agricultural credit bodies which can be formed quickly and have borrowing power from the Federal banks of ten times their capital stock.

T. E. Davis, president of the Farm Loan bank here, said that the bank was anxious to serve in a large way if the growers would cooperate. Marketing through cooperative effort . . .

Grand Mere, Quebec, October 6.—Into the golden circle of New York's millionaire society there stepped today a timid girl who had been a servant in the house of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman.

She walked into the charmed circle as an equal, and as the affianced bride-to-be of young James "Bud" Stillman, son of the couple whose love affairs had held New York's interest for years.

It was Mrs. Anne Uroghart ("Effie") Potter-Stillman herself who made announcement, at her summer estate here on the St. Maurice river, and all of that ilk of gold-stamped aristocracy.

Southeastern Fair Will End Successful Season After Three More Days of Entertainment.

With only three more days before the fireworks flash their last "good night" over the million lights and myriad carnival sounds of the 1926 Southeastern fair, the fair spins today into "Atlanta and merchants" day with the second largest attendance of the season practically assured.

A spectacular air show, featured by the first airplane races ever held over Atlanta; the sensational free vaudeville program in front of the grandstand, afternoon and night; the fireworks at night, and the $100,000 exhibition of Georgia and Atlanta agricultural and industrial wealth, drew an attendance Wednesday estimated at midnight as the largest fairs' day attendance since 1920.

Major W. A. Alexander, of the Royal Flying Corps, won the 50-mile airplane race with a time of 29:32, more than 100 miles an hour, in his Swallow plane, leading Captain A. B. McMullen, second place winner, by less than one second's time across the finish line opposite the grandstand.

Walter Jewell, American aviator, won the third balloon race, the second he has won during the balloon . . .

DOCTOR IS VICTOR IN 110 COUNTIES; HOLDER WINS 51

State Democratic Convention, Wednesday in Macon, To Officially Nominate Commerce Man.

COUNTY UNIT VOTES TOTAL 282 TO 132

Hardman Held First Primary Strength, Gaining Support From Carswell, Wood and Holder Ranks

In a sweeping victory, in which both his county unit votes and the number of counties carried exceeded that of his opponent by a ratio of more than two to one, Dr. L. G. Hardman, of Commerce, was nominated for governor over John N. Holder, of Jefferson, according to returns received Wednesday night. Dr. Hardman carried 110 counties with 282 unit votes, while Holder carried 51 counties with 132 unit votes.

Dr. Hardman, who was the leading candidate in a field of four in the first primary held September 8, not only maintained the strength he showed in the first race but won much of the support received by George H. Carswell, of Wilkinson, and J. O. Wood, of Fulton, who ran third and fourth, respectively, in the governor's race in the first primary, and made extensive inroads on the support Holder received in the first primary.

Out of 414 county unit votes Dr. Hardman led in the first primary with a total of 168, which was ten more votes than Holder received, who ran second with 158 unit votes. Carswell ran third with 72 unit votes and Wood fourth with 16 unit votes. In the run-over race held Wednesday Dr. Hardman held practically all of the support he received in the first race and also obtained the major portion of the votes cast for Wood and Carswell. Convention Next Week.

Dr. Hardman will receive his official nomination at the state democratic convention, which will be held in Macon next Wednesday. At the convention the official vote will be canvassed in all the races for state offices, including those held in the first primary, at which time nominees for other state house offices besides that of governor were named.

Since the democratic nomination is equivalent to election in Georgia, Dr. Hardman will become the next governor.

Restaurant Men Will Climax Session Today With Banquet

Members of the National Restaurant Men's association, in convention here, tonight will climax a busy day's program with an elaborate banquet at the Biltmore hotel. The convention will come to an end Friday afternoon with annual election of officers and selection of the next convention city.

Wednesday was "Atlanta day," and hundreds of Atlantans visited the convention and met the restaurant men and saw the exhibition of restaurant machinery and labor and time-saving devices on display at the auditorium. During the afternoon several hundred delegates went to Stone Mountain by automobile for a barbecue and to see the memorial carving on the mountain's side.

Returning to the city in the late afternoon the restaurant men, after a short rest, were guests at a typical

"down south" entertainment on the roof of the Ansley hotel. The public inspected the exhibits between 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and 10 o'clock Wednesday night, a program of demonstrations and talks being arranged especially for the occasion.

Among those who spoke at the convention Wednesday were Frank Sohn, of Chicago; W. C. Jones, of Colorado Springs; Mrs. Katherine Talbot, of Dayton, Ohio, and Robert Arthur Elwood, pastor of the Boardwalk church, Atlantic City.

Today's program follows:

MORNING.

9:00—Opening exposition. A study of modern machines, equipment, food and supplies displayed by exhibitors.

10:00—General round-table discussion, general meeting room.

11:00—Address, "Southern Cooking and Northern Appetites," by Mrs. Linda Spence, Brown associate professor, department of institutional administration, Iowa State college, Ames, Iowa.

11:30—Address, "It's Up to You," by Ralph Parlette, author, orator, philosopher, humorist, Chicago, Ill.

12:00—The exposition. A study of modern machines, equipment, food and supplies displayed by exhibitors.

AFTERNOON.

2:00—"Said Making Demonstration," by Mrs. R. E. Dull, editor, cooking page, Atlanta Journal, Atlanta, Ga.

4:00—"Sweet Dough Pastry Demonstration," by E. H. Shields, Jr., the Fleischman company, New York, N. Y.

6:00—The exposition. A study of modern machines, equipment, food and supplies displayed by exhibitors.

EVENING.

8:00—Annual banquet, Atlanta Biltmore hotel, "Sandy" Sinclair, master of ceremonies. Toastmaster, Myron Green, Myron Green cafeteria, Kansas City, Mo., guest president. Spunker, southern orator.

There Is Something in a Name!

What Price Economy?

If price were the sole test of value, beggars would ride horseback and poor men's cottages would be princes' palaces.

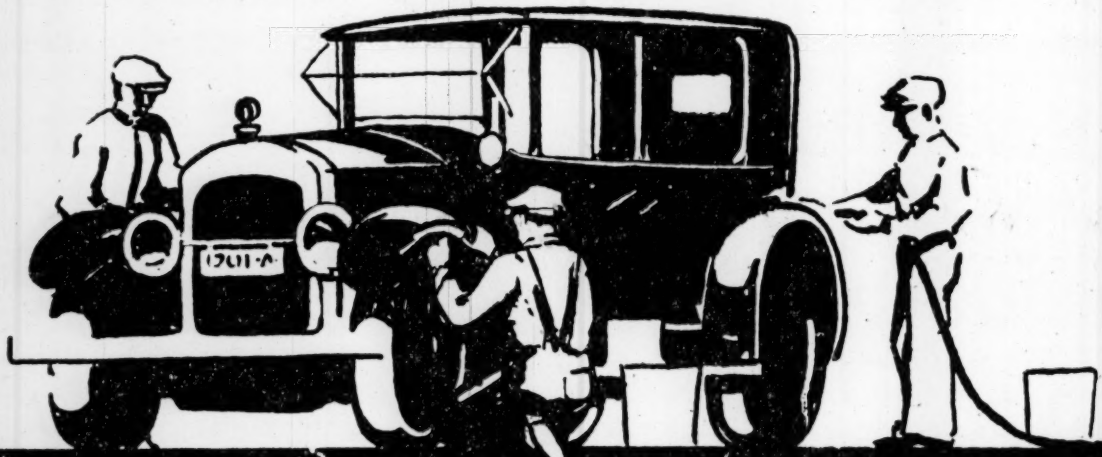

Price is a relative thing. What you pay is important, what you get is more important. As a rule, a lowered price is a smoke screen, hiding a lowered quality, a defect, a miscue, a mistake.

What does it profit a woman to gain a whole world of bargains (?) and lose her money through an investment in flimsy?

This is not a plea for high prices. It is a plea to scotch the idea of high prices so frequently associated with this store.

Make a little journey of investigation. Keep in mind the fact that price is a relative thing. You will be dumfounded. You will discover that the prices at Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose are lowest!

CONSTITUTION REPORT ON CITY RACE STANDS

Figures compiled Tuesday night by The Constitution in the run-off race for nomination for the post of recorder of the second division of the recorder's court and councilman from the second ward remained unchanged Wednesday when the executive committee issued the official count of the contest.

Murphy M. Holloway, incumbent, was re-nominated over his opponent Thomas H. Goodwin, by a vote of 2,546 to 1,807, and Howard C. McCutcheon was selected as the nominee for council from the second over his opponent, J. W. Weaver, by a vote of 437 to 317.

The executive committee also declared Roy D. Lusk, the nominee for the board of education from the tenth ward, his opponent, C. J. McLeander, having retired from the race. The runner races were held Tuesday.

8 CHILDREN BEAR INITIALS OF 'C. C.' IN TERRELL FAMILY

Believe it or not, all of the eight children of James Wesley Cox, of the Bull Neck division of Terrell county, near Dawson, have the initials, C. C., with their names all starting with "C."

Ray Sheppard, of Atlanta, uncovered the unique naming of children while on a recent visit through that section. The children's names are: Clara, Clayton, Clarence, Clark, Clemmie, Clinton, Clyde and Cleo. Asked by Mr. Sheppard for his reason for the unique names Mrs. Cox replied that "it was just 'a sort of mischievous idea of mine.'"

FORMER ATLANTAN GIVEN PROMOTION BY CEMENT FIRM

James B. Johnson, Jr., former Atlantian, who was with the freight traffic department of the Southern railway for many years and about two years ago became traffic manager for the Signal Mountain Cement company at Chattanooga, has been promoted to general traffic manager of the Consolidated Cement Corporation of America, with offices in Chicago, it was learned here Wednesday.

Mr. Johnson is the son of Mrs. Mary Perdue Johnson and a nephew of John Albert Perdue, pioneer of Atlanta. He was educated in Atlanta public schools and after entering the service of the Southern he rose through various grades in the general freight office. He was chief rate clerk and then chief clerk before he left Atlanta to go with the cement company at Chattanooga.

Mr. Johnson is considered one of the most capable of the younger traffic men and has many friends in Atlanta who will be glad to hear of this recent recognition of his ability.

CHILLY WEATHER HERALDS COMING OF REAL WINTER

Atlantans awoke early Wednesday morning to be greeted by the first real autumn and fall weather of the season and a cool and brisk north-west wind that sent the mercury tumbling to the 58 degree mark the lowest of the season thus far. Indications point to a repetition of the same brand of clear, cool brisk weather for at least a couple of days, according to C. F. von Herrmann, local official weather forecaster. The highest temperature Wednesday was 70 degrees and it was predicted that temperatures ranging between 58 and 72 degrees will prevail today.

College, high schools and sand lot football players were seen during Wednesday afternoon in almost every vacant lot and practice fields in the city preparing for the games next Saturday. Tech and Oglethorpe made good use of the chilly weather and held snappy scrimmages for more than an hour.

"This is real fall weather," Mr. von Herrmann said, "but Atlantans should realize that temperatures have been abnormally high for this time of the year and the fall season appears to be adjusting itself, although a bit late."

Last of Delours On Scenic Highway Now Completed

Completion of an 11-mile stretch of concrete highway just south of (Inesville) on the Appalachian Scenic highway eliminates the last bad detour between Asheville and Atlanta, according to H. H. Estes, president of the Georgia division of the highway association.

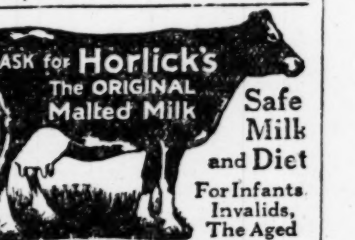

The new concrete link provides a hard-surfaced road for the entire route from Asheville to Atlanta, via Bryson City, Buford, Lawrenceville, Decatur, over which automobiles can make an average speed of 25 miles an hour without inconvenience, it was said.

Plans are being completed for a road from Asheville to Atlanta on October 18, more than 100 cars being expected to participate. J. H. Enwright, who is in charge, said Wednesday that the motorcade will stop for the night at Gainesville and will be given a banquet in Atlanta on arrival here. The highway association will hold its annual meeting in Atlanta at that time, Roscoe Marvel, president, announced.

Plans for Rehabilitation Of Florida Storm Victims Announced by Red Cross

No Cash Will Be Given,
No Loans Made; Requisitions for Labor and Materials To Be Issued.

Miami, Fla., October 6.—(P)—Plans of the American Red Cross for rehabilitation of more than 18,000 Florida families, sufferers in the recent hurricane, were made public today by Henry M. Baker, directing Red Cross disaster relief work here.

With the emergency relief period passed, Mr. Baker said the Red Cross immediately will begin giving individual consideration to the needs of every family and making awards from the relief fund for permanent rehabilitation.

The need of the family alone will guide the relief workers in determining the amount of every award, Mr. Baker said.

"Neither the Red Cross nor any other single organization can replace all the losses, but we hope sufficient aid can be given, when supplemented by the family's own resources, will place it in a self-supporting position with the future approximately normal."

First Step in Plan.
The first step in making an award, Mr. Baker said, will be the assembling of detailed information concerning a family's resources and liabilities. Both potential and real liabilities will be considered together with the age of its members, their health and dependents.

From this information the relief workers will be in a position to decide intelligently on the amount of assistance needed from the Red Cross for rebuilding homes, procuring furniture and other essentials.

Assurance was given by Mr. Baker that all information given Red Cross workers will be treated confidentially. He pointed out the necessity of procuring such information, however, before an award could be made. To this end a committee of residents of each community affected by the disaster will act in an advisory capacity to the relief workers.

Requisitions Given.
Cash will not be given beneficiaries, Mr. Baker said, but requisitions for needed labor and materials will be issued. Purchases will be made and the merchants will submit bills to the Red Cross for payment. No loans will be made, financial assistance being rendered without obligating the beneficiary.

All purchases will be made locally, Mr. Baker said, and with an even distribution of business, since the storm sufferers are given their choice of merchants. A check will be maintained to prevent purchase of articles higher in price than reasonable and an effort will be made to rehabilitate families to the standard of living they enjoyed prior to the disaster. Aid will be given the aged first, he said.

Mr. Baker would not hazard an opinion on the time expected to be required to complete relief work, other than that he doubted its completion in "much under a year."

"While we are making a special effort to push this work to completion as early as possible, we are unwilling to sacrifice thoroughness, efficiency and justice to demands for speed," he said.

Ready for Tourists.
That sufficient progress would be made within the next few months to efface many scars left by the hurricane and that Florida will be prepared to entertain winter tourists in no number, this winter was the opinion of Mr. Baker. "As far as the tourists are concerned, normal conditions will be completely established before they begin to arrive."

Concerning rural relief, Mr. Baker said assistance would be given citrus growers and truck farmers on the same basis as all other. Financial assistance will be rendered them according to their actual needs as disclosed by investigations.

Mr. Baker emphasized the fact that the relief fund, which he hopes will reach $5,000,000, will be used exclusively for the direct relief of hurricane victims. All administrative costs will be paid from the American Red Cross national treasury, he said.

FLORIDA TO BE READY FOR WINTER TOURISTS.

Washington, October 6.—Florida is coming back, with a jump, declared Frank B. Shuts, publisher and chairman of the citizens relief committee at Miami, in a statement issued here.

He deplored the impression that Miami does not need help.

"The fact is that every house in town was damaged to a greater or lesser extent," Shuts said. "That places every one in about the same position and throws him on his own resources. But with their own losses to be absorbed immediately, you can readily see that the well-to-do cannot take care of the great need of the thousands who are left homeless and who cannot help themselves. As is usual, it is the poor who have suffered most."

"One thing is sure, this city will be able to take care of as many winter visitors as it did last year, and as comfortably and happily. All the hotels can be easily repaired in 30 days. The apartment houses ought to be completed in 60 days. The smaller residences will be finished just as fast as the individuals can arrange the finances for their repair or reconstruction. The town is full of business. You never heard so much hammering and sawing and hauling and trucking in your life. We are coming back with a jump, and you can tell everybody so."

FIREBOX HEARING BY U. S. COURT SET OCTOBER 18

The locomotive firebox case of the state of Georgia against the Atlantic Coast Line railway company, which originally was set for hearing in the U. S. supreme court on last Monday, was reset for October 18, Georgia M. Napier, attorney general of Georgia, stated Wednesday upon his return from Washington.

Grouped with the Georgia case for hearing October 18 will be similar state cases regarding locomotive appliances for protection to firemen, from Michigan and Wisconsin, the attorney general said. While the Georgia case involves the legality of the state law requiring automatic firebrakes as a safety device, the other cases from Michigan and Wisconsin have to do with the legality of their state laws regarding cab curtains as compulsory devices in all locomotives, it is understood.

Rev. James Myers, field secretary of the federal council of churches, was extended the privilege of the convention floor near the end of a special session this morning at which the action of the Detroit churches in withdrawing their invitations was discussed under suspension of rules as a special order of business.

The Rev. Mr. Myers told the delegates the action of the Detroit churches did not reflect the attitude of

DETROIT CHURCHES SCORED BY LABOR

Detroit, October 6.—(P)—Following vigorous denunciation in the American Federation of Labor convention of the action of Detroit ministers and Y. M. C. A. officials in closing their pulpits to labor speakers, President Green, of the federation, tonight declined an invitation from the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, to speak Sunday afternoon at a mass meeting under auspices of the council at the First Congregational church of Detroit.

Announcement of Mr. Green's decision to decline the invitation of the church council came a few hours after he had been formally advised by C. H. Van Dusen, president of the board of control of the Detroit Y. M. C. A., that an invitation extended him in July to address a "Y" meeting next Sunday had been withdrawn.

President Green, chairman of the special convention session, announced in answer to a question from the floor immediately after suspension of the rules, that during the noon recess to day he had been formally notified an invitation extended him in July to speak at a Y. M. C. A. meeting next Sunday had been withdrawn.

John H. Frey, president of the Ohio State federation, preceded his interjection of Green with a vigorous denunciation of the action of the churchmen and a reply to the published inference of the Detroit board of commerce that the aims of the A. F. of L. speakers who had been invited to fill Detroit pulpits Sunday were not in harmony with the traditional ideals of American patriotism.

Frey began by reading an open letter from the Detroit board of commerce to the ministers of the city in which the labor speakers named were characterized as "men who are admittedly attacking our government and our American plan of employment."

The letter ended with the suggestion that the ministers deliberate "whether or not you wish to have your church deviate from the program for which it is maintained."

"I first wish to ask," Frey began, "if it is in truth a fact that a speech did not represent the sentiment of the the Christian church throughout the country. He said the federal council had arranged a special meeting next Sunday at which President Green would be invited to speak on "Ideals of Labor in the Church."

"The convention adjourned at the conclusion of the Rev. Mr. Myers' address, to resume the discussion at the morning session tomorrow."

Invitation Withdrawn.
President Green, chairman of the special convention session, announced in answer to a question from the floor immediately after suspension of the rules, that during the noon recess to day he had been formally notified an invitation extended him in July to speak at a Y. M. C. A. meeting next Sunday had been withdrawn.

John H. Frey, president of the Ohio State federation, preceded his interjection of Green with a vigorous denunciation of the action of the churchmen and a reply to the published inference of the Detroit board of commerce that the aims of the A. F. of L. speakers who had been invited to fill Detroit pulpits Sunday were not in harmony with the traditional ideals of American patriotism.

Frey began by reading an open letter from the Detroit board of commerce to the ministers of the city in which the labor speakers named were characterized as "men who are admittedly attacking our government and our American plan of employment."

The letter ended with the suggestion that the ministers deliberate "whether or not you wish to have your church deviate from the program for which it is maintained."

"I first wish to ask," Frey began, "if it is in truth a fact that a speech did not represent the sentiment of the by a representative of the American Federation of Labor would represent a deviation from the program for which the Christian church is maintained?"

"The altar of the church ever has been the refuge of the oppressed. Let this convention be warned now that when Mammon dominates the altar Christianity has passed away."

George L. Berry, president of the Pressman's union and formerly vice commissioner of the American Legion, cited the war record of American labor.

"Our answer to these charges is the fact that 682,000 members of organized labor enlisted in the service of the nation during the war."

President Green told the convention notice of the withdrawal of the Y. M. C. A. invitation had been communicated by C. M. Van Dusen, president of the board of control of the association, and L. M. Terrell, executive secretary.

"The public at large," Green concluded, "and the working people in particular, must put their own construction upon the action of the executive board of the Detroit Young Men's Christian association. I regret this unfortunate incident. It attracts our attention to the fact that a situation exists in the city of Detroit which is not found in any other large manufacturing city in the United States."

"The existence of the causes for such a situation cannot and will not make for the spiritual, moral and civic betterment of the great mass of the people who reside in this city."

T. A. McCullough, representing the International Typographical union, said the action of the Detroit churches did not represent the sentiment of the Protestant churches throughout the country. John H. Walker, president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, regretted the action of the Y. M. C. A.

BAPTIST BODY HOLDS MEET AT THOMASVILLE

Thomasville, Ga., October 6.—(Special.)—The annual meeting of the Baptist Women's Missionary union of the Mercer association was in session here today at the First Baptist church. Women from Quitman, Boston and other nearby towns were in attendance and the program given was very interesting, as were the reports from the various committees of the work that has been done throughout this section.

Bombay, India, October 6.—The country around Karachi is devastated by a terrible earthquake, cyclone and floods in the last seven days. The losses are estimated at 25,000,000 rupees ($9,000,000).

The greatest loss is caused to ships, grain and sugar stocks being absolutely ruined. Roads and bridges have been washed away and there is much misery among the lower classes, whose dwellings have been destroyed.

Browning Bereft of Bride, But Bills Keep Pouring In

New York, October 6.—(AP)—Ed-ward W. Browning, 51-year-old wealthy real estate operator and promoter, is still receiving bills for clothes bought by his school girl bride just before she left him, but he has received no word from the girl.

The latest bill, for $250, covering dresses which the 16-year-old wife bought and had charged to Browning was received by him today. Last Saturday he had received bills for $5,000 representing trunks, wraps, silk stockings, hats and other feminine apparel which were purchased on Friday by "Peaches," as Browning calls his wife.

"Peaches" has not yet said whether she was considering accepting an offer, reported to have been made from Chicago, to appear on the stage for $2,000 a week. Browning has insisted that their separation is only temporary.

Late this afternoon, Browning's secretary said that "Peaches" had returned, presumably from New Jersey, to the home of her mother in West 157th street, Manhattan. The secretary said this information was contained in a telegram received at Browning's office, but he did not say from whom the telegram was received.

At the same time the secretary gave out the following statement in behalf of Browning:

"Mr. Edward W. Browning is still maintaining apartments at the New Gardens Inn (Long Island) for Mrs. Browning and himself.

"Mr. Browning is still maintaining a city home for Mrs. Browning and himself at the Hotel Emerson."

This is the hotel where Browning has for the past few days been living alone.

Throughout the day Browning, apparently anxious to learn the whereabouts of his wife, read the newspapers edition by edition as they were taken to his office by his chauffeur.

GARRETT DERIDES G. O. P. 'ECONOMY'

New York, October 6.—(AP)—Rep. Finis J. Garrett, of Tennessee, minority leader in the house of representatives, today characterized as "bunk" reported economies in national expenditures.

Addressing the convention of the national association of manufacturers, Mr. Garrett asserted currents of government are running strongly toward centralization, and that while this condition exists economies in national government cannot be effected.

"We have heard a great deal about economies that have been wrought in national expenditures," said Garrett. "This creates a favorable psychology, but if you will scrutinize the figures closely you will find that it's all just psychology—we can work some economies if we will stop thrusting the Federal government into purely local functions, and let it reach forth its powerful arm only to the things that are national, as the constitution contemplates."

John E. Edgerton, of Lebanon, Tenn., was chosen president of the association for the fifth consecutive year. Henry Abbott, of this city, was re-elected treasurer. More than 20 vice presidents and directors were elected.

THE "BITE" OF CHILLY WEATHER

It's the time of year now when a North wind makes us step lively; it also makes us think of top coats and heavier wraps, for by-and-by we're going to need them.

You have undoubtedly observed that Atlanta's stores and shops are already featuring the heavier articles of wearing apparel in Constitution advertisements.

If you read The Constitution advertisements every day you are kept right up to date on everything, and you'll never miss a bargain that is worth your while.

It is wise to get very serious about heavier clothing before it is actually needed; then you are prepared for anything Jack Frost has to say.

AMERICAN VIEWS GET NEW SETBACK

Geneva, October 6.—Another slap at the American thesis on disarmament, and incidentally a step diametrically opposed to the American attitude recently expressed by Secretary Kellogg, was taken Wednesday by a League of Nations disarmament sub-commission.

The sub-commission recommended a system of elaborate control, whereby nations signatory to league disarmament pacts would be subject to investigation by a league commission, relative to their fulfillment of disarmament agreements. This idea of control, permitting a power to complain to the league regarding another power's fulfillment of an arms pact, and assuring that power investigation of its protest by the league, has been opposed by the American commission here and also was strongly opposed by Mr. Kellogg in his recent speech at Plattsburgh, N. Y.

Thus four important recommendations made by league sub-commissions are in direct opposition to the American viewpoint. They are:

1. Consideration of a nation's economic power in arriving at a basis for disarmament.
2. Consideration of total tonnages of vessels rather than classes; this opposes the theory by which the Washington treaties were negotiated.
3. Consideration of land, air and naval forces as an inseparable whole.
4. Arrangement for a system of international control.

NINE BODIES FOUND IN EXPLODED MINE

Rockwood, Tenn., October 6.—(AP)—Nine bodies had been recovered to night from the Boone Iron company's coal mine here, in which an explosion Monday trapped more than 30 miners three miles into the mountainside.

The badly mangled bodies of three miners were brought to the surface late today by a rescue crew which had worked since early morning clearing a path to the explosion area, where it is believed 18 bodies remain.

Six bodies previously had been removed from the mine since the men were caught by the terrific blast of dust and gas.

Efforts to identify the three bodies recovered today were being made tonight by relatives of the missing men.

With the return of the rescue crew with these bodies, it was indicated there was little hope of bringing out any more tonight.

Two other bodies so badly mangled that no attempt was made to remove them, have been found. By their location and articles found near them, these bodies were partially identified as those of Jesse Dale and C. B. Davis.

A crowd of 200 or more weeping relatives and friends were waiting at the mouth of the mine when the three bodies were brought out today. Many others were kept away by the cold.

CANNED SALMON PINK AND CHUM

By HENRY O'MALLEY, Commissioner, U. S. Bureau of Fisheries.

In 1864 an enterprising resident of California established a salmon cannery on the banks of the Sacramento River for the purpose of utilizing the chinook salmon which swarmed in that stream. There were smaller runs of other species, but the chinook was so conspicuously the most abundant, the largest and the richest that it was used exclusively in the newly established industry.

This salmon has reddish flesh, and when the growing demand for the product induced the extension of the industry, the growth was toward rivers and sections producing the same fish or other red-meated species, first to the Columbia River, then Puget Sound, and latest in Alaska. For a great many years the only salmon canned were the red-meated kinds, and the public has come so intimately to associate the color with the product that pink or pale-fleshed fish have been regarded with disfavor or suspicion. Even light-meated chinook, common in some localities, have not found a ready market. Color is a matter of appearance only, but prejudice and custom have caused the public to pass by the cheaper and equally wholesome pink and chum principally because they are not red when canned.

Economy of Using Pink and Chum Salmon.

Pinks and chums usually contain less fat but are equal to the redder varieties in protein-tissue-building material. They are low priced because of their abundance and the use of labor-saving machinery in handling and canning them. Their high protein content and lower cost render them more economical than most animal foods in common use. To buy the same quantity of proteins, disregarding the fat or oil, in various foods in common use would cost as follows:

	Cents
Canned salmon, pink or chum, per 1-lb. can.....	15
Ham, 1 1/4 pounds, at 45 cents.....	63
Chicken, average, 1 1/4 pounds, at 35 cents.....	49
Lamb, leg, 1 1/2 pounds, at 37 cents.....	52
Stripped steak, 1 1/2 pounds, at 40 cents.....	60
Eggs, strictly fresh, 1 dozen, at 48 cents.....	48

The two kinds of canned salmon, pink and chum, contain more tissue-building material, weight for weight, than the other foods listed, but they have less fat. They are as digestible as the best of meats, there is no waste, and nothing has to be thrown away except the can.

They have another virtue. Fresh meats spoil quickly in the home; canned salmon will keep indefinitely if unopened. Moreover, it is ready for immediate use, or it may be cooked in a variety of ways if desired.

One pound of fresh salmon will furnish 18 per cent of the energy a man needs daily, 69 per cent of the protein, 10 per cent of the calcium, 67 per cent of the phosphorus, and 19 per cent of the iron. As the bones are softened in processing and rendered suitable for consumption, the min-

Canning Operations.

Salmon canneries make extensive use of labor-saving machinery, which not only makes it possible to pack vast quantities of the fish during the brief period of the runs, but adds to the quality and sanitation of the product by almost entirely avoiding contact with hands and clothing. Nothing is added to the fish excepting sufficient salt for seasoning. The processes employed in packing pinks and chums are in all respects the same as those used on the more expensive kinds, and they are, therefore, equally wholesome.

The magnitude of the industry is not generally appreciated. In 1925 the total American pack was 6,018,550 cases, or 288,890,400 3-pound cans. Of these nearly 128,000,000 cans were pink salmon, and 58,000,000 cans were chums.

* The quotations are average retail prices for the United States for the year 1924, as compiled by the U. S. Department of Labor in Bulletin of the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, No. 595, "Retail Prices, 1900 to 1924" (1925). Fractional parts of a cent given in the bulletin are not given here. The prices of canned chum and pink salmon are not quoted in Bulletin 595. The prices of these grades of salmon average 10 to 20 cents.

50 Elaborate Costumes Chosen MONARCH TO WEAR FAMOUS TRIPLE PEARL NECKLACE By Queen Marie for U. S. Tour

(Copyright United States, Canada, Great Britain, and all other countries by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved. Reproduction prohibited.)

BY ELIZABETH HOUGHTON WHARTON.

Paris, October 6.—Queen Marie of Rumania already has chosen 50 costumes for her American tour. They are all models especially adapted for her from big collections, notably those of Patou and Rodiere. Winter models in tones of chestnut, copper, dark brown, and patouina red have been created to suit the queen's luxurious, but restrained taste and her graceful and mature dignity.

These deep autumnal colorings are often enriched with gold and silver embroideries in plain geometrical designs. Queen Marie's clothes are distinguished by the beauty of their material and cut.

For morning wear the queen has extremely simple one-piece gowns to be worn under a fur coat, youthful and slim in outline. For afternoon, she has more elaborate costumes in velvet and lace, all with long sleeves.

The sleeveless afternoon models of one house have all been changed to suit this desire of Queen Marie. For evening the queen has gorgeous brocades, black velvet studded with diamond railroads, and a red velvet with jeweled bands.

Fur-Trimmed Coats.

The queen's coats are sumptuously trimmed with fur, two with her favorite blue fox. Her skirts are always longer than the models, with plenty of fullness to allow easy walking.

With almost all her costumes, the queen wears flesh-colored stockings. With grey costumes, however, she naturally wears grey stockings. Her shoes are especially made by a well-known shoemaker here, mostly in tones of reddish brown to match her street costumes.

The costume which the queen is expected to wear on shipboard and on her arrival in New York has a beige broadcloth coat richly trimmed with brown castor, the fur forming a panel down the front, and cut into two triangular pieces to form pockets. There is a narrow belt at the sides. With this coat go two dresses, one of beige crepe de chine, and one of woolen material.

Another morning costume of pale beige crepe de chine has pleats carried above the waistline in points, and held in by a softly knotted belt of the same material. A dress of beige morocain crepe is worn with a bunch of orchids, the queen's favorite flower, on the left shoulder. The collection also contains crepe dresses in the new tone of red called Virginia creeper, and a darker red called patouina.

All of Queen Marie's dresses are light in weight, except a magnificent white ball gown embroidered with masses of tiny pearls and crystals. An evening gown of red velvet, giving a youthful but majestic effect, has a front drape, the folds being gathered at the normal waistline into a curved motif of jeweled embroidery. A velvet evening dress of black and silver is designed along princess lines, with a V-neck and a scalloped flare to the bottom. Another black dress is trimmed with glycerinated ostrich plumes.

As a background for Queen Marie's famous triple pearl necklace and other jewels, including diadems inherited from her mother, the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia. The queen has selected an evening dress of dark brocade crepe patouina, with folds of the material floating from the shoulders. Another beautiful dress of rose and silver-lace has beaded tassels which swing with each step.

A favorite among the queen's choice for afternoon is a dress of copper-colored metal cloth brocaded in gold and blue. With this she will wear a close-fitting hat of taupe soie, with a brush of glycerinated feathers depending on the left side.

Queen Marie is prepared for the dust of the deserts of Arizona and Colorado. She has selected one costume of plain dust-colored material, with a short comfortable jacket which she can easily slip on and off. With this she will wear roomy brown oxfords and woolen stockings.

In addition to her Paris clothes, Queen Marie is taking Rumanian peasant costumes for herself and Princess Ileana, to wear at functions at the Rumanian colonies in America.

U. S. RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA ASKED

Detroit, Mich., October 6.—The resolutions committee of the American Federation of Labor was in a warm debate Wednesday over a proposal to advocate American recognition of soviet Russia and a number of other so-called radical resolutions referred to it by delegates attending the labor convention.

The line between radicals and conservatives was clearly drawn when delegates from all parts of the country began pouring their resolutions into the hopper. The principal controversy over these proposals was expected to center in the committee however, as leaders of the federation have no desire to see the issues fought out on the floor of the convention.

Delegates Are United.

Meanwhile the delegates were completely united in their resentment against Detroit civic organizations which induced the churches of the city to bar labor speakers from their pulpits after inviting them to appear next Sunday. As the invitations have been withdrawn there is no appeal against the action and delegates accepted it as "bad manners on the part of an open shop city."

The proposal to recognize the soviet government of Russia came from a number of foreign fraternal delegates and immediately drew the opposition of President William Green. "We have sympathy for the Russian workers," Green said, "but we cannot cooperate until they renounce their adherence to the soviet form of government and its fight against American methods."

Resolutions Referred.

Other resolutions referred to the committee include the following:

- Indorsement of the five-day week; opposition to the world court; denunciation of fascist form of government; urging restoration of citizenship to Eugene V. Debs; asking a department of justice investigation of the Sacco-Vanzetti case; asking the release of all political prisoners throughout the world.

Georgia's Governor-Elect

FOURTH MEMBER OF COLQUITT FAMILY TO HEAD STATE

Has Had Remarkable Career

Dr. L. G. Hardman, of Commerce, Ga., democratic nominee for governor, which in Georgia means governor-elect, a surgeon with a nation-wide reputation before he gave up his practice, a farmer of conspicuous success and a business man whose affairs are state-wide in their scope, will be the fourth member of the well-known Georgia family of Colquitts to have been honored as governor of a state.

Dr. Hardman was born in 1856 at Commerce, which was then Harmony Grove, and has centered his various activities in this town during his long and successful career. His father was W. B. J. Hardman, a country doctor who ministered to the people of Jackson county in partnership with Crawford Long, discoverer of the use of anesthesia in surgery.

His mother was a Colquitt. One member of this family already has been governor of Georgia and the great state of Texas has honored two Colquitts in like manner.

When Hardman was a boy, known to his intimates as "Lam" (his full name is Lamartine Griffin Hardman), he went to the schools of Commerce and was graduated with honors. He had already been launched in the study of medicine at home by his father and later attended the Bellevue Medical school, attached to Bellevue hospital in New York. After completing the course of study there he attended Johns Hopkins in Baltimore and then spent considerable time studying under the famous London surgeon, Gar.

Practiced With Father.

After completing his medical education he returned to Commerce and began practice with his father with his office and home in a two-room cabin built for him by C. W. Hood, a friend of the elder Hardman. That cabin, weather-beaten and stained by time, stands today as a monument to the friendship.

In a few years his father left the medical profession to become a Baptist minister and the young doctor continued alone a career that has brought him success in the business world and that will see him seated next June in the governor's chair as chief executive of the state of Georgia.

In his early days as a doctor Hardman rode all over Jackson county on horseback and with the growth of his reputation as a surgeon, in which branch of the medical profession he soon became a leader in Georgia, his practice led him to all parts of the state. Because there were, in those days, few well-equipped sanitariums in the state and none at all nearer to Commerce than Atlanta, the doctor was forced to send all his hospital patients here. He soon came tired of this and built and established a private sanitarium in his home town. This quickly became known throughout the south and drew patients from over the whole state. And although Dr. Hardman, a few years ago, gave up his practice because of the pressure of business affairs, his entire life has been devoted to the study of his profession and it is said to be today fully equipped, just as it was when the popular surgeon performed his last operation and could be reopened for practice in a short time.

Invested In Farm Lands.

As his constantly growing practice led him to other parts of the state, Hardman became interested in farm lands and steadily increased his investments in idle lands throughout northern Georgia. This formed the foundation for, and in a sense, the cause of his present industries, which include a cotton mill at Harmony Grove (a new town established by Hardman after he had introduced a bill in the state legislature changing the name of the older town to Commerce), banks, a telephone company and numerous farms operated along the most modern and scientific lines.

Dr. Hardman's office is said, by his friends, to be the nerve center of Commerce. He is president of every commercial enterprise, including the First National bank, and is owner of the telephone company which he bought when it was $20,000 in debt. The telephone and the bank are typical of his experience in business. It is now free of indebtedness and is being installed in a new building at Jefferson. At Harmony Grove he has peach, apple and pear orchards which have been developed into a high state of production. He also owns farms in White, Banks, Harrow, Madison, Jackson and half a dozen other counties in north Georgia. It is reported that Dr. Hardman's farms have made money consistently even during the past few years, which have been disastrous for most southern planters.

National Fame as Farmer.

The success of his efforts in the scientific farming business have brought Dr. Hardman national recognition. Several years ago The New York Herald ran a series on Dr. Hardman's work in agriculture and The Country Gentleman used him four years ago in an article as an outstanding example of the successful, scientific farmer and his farm in south Georgia is known as a raiser of blooded live stock.

The Harmony Grove mills, of which he also is president, have been a notable success. In the first half of the year they were established the mills paid 10 per cent in dividends and $75,000 was put in Liberty bonds as a reserve fund. In 1923 and 1924 the mill paid in dividends to stockholders the sum of $250,000 which was equal to the amount of the capital stock. Dr. Hardman's activities include also ownership of drug, hardware and mercantile stores in northeast Georgia and, according to reports, he has made money out of them all.

Governor's Race Betting Heavier Than in 25 Years

If Wednesday's primary runover between Dr. L. G. Hardman and John N. Holder failed to bring out as heavy a vote over the state as was polled in the red-hot, knock-down-and-drag-out political campaigns of olden days, it set a quarter-century record in at least one respect.

Not in the past 25 years has betting on an election been as heavy, and it was reported that in Atlanta alone those who backed Dr. Hardman, to win pocketed not less than $50,000.

Wagers in all parts of the state were reported to be far heavier than usual, and it was estimated by prominent members of the betting fraternity in Atlanta that around $100,000 was won and lost over the state on the contest of Wednesday.

For two weeks prior to the election day heavy sums were offered in Atlanta on Dr. Hardman and a great part of them were taken by Holder backers at even money. Within the past several days, however, there was a dearth of Holder backing, and in order to draw additional money on the highway chief into the wagering centers, odds of two to one on Hardman were offered.

While it was not apparent prior to the election that the betting was as heavy as it really was, Wednesday night's results brought ample evidence of the fact that wagering had been widespread and that tremendous sums had changed hands.

In this recent photograph is shown Georgia's new first lady of the state and her four children, who will make their home for the next two years in the executive mansion on The Prado with the husband and father, Dr. L. G. Hardman, of Commerce, Jackson county, who Wednesday was elected governor of Georgia for the next two years by a large majority over his opponent, John N. Holder.

BLUNDER TO COST GERMAN HIS JOB

Berlin, October 6.—(AP)—What the allied military control commission long has sought vainly to accomplish, Major General Von Seeckt, himself, apparently has brought about by political indiscretion—namely his removal from the highest active military position in the German republic.

The general today tendered his resignation as commander-in-chief of the Reichswehr, and it is believed President Von Hindenburg will accept it. Evidently without foreseeing the political possibilities that would be stirred up, Von Seeckt permitted Prince Wilhelm, the eldest son of the former crown prince, to participate in recent maneuvers of the Reichswehr. The prince served in the Potsdam regiment where many of his ancestors received their military training.

The general failed to confer with Minister of Defense Gessler, and the latter, learning of the participation of Prince Wilhelm, declined to make any defense for the commander-in-chief of the Reichswehr.

JAMES M. COX GIVES STATEMENT ON FLORIDA AID

Dayton, Ohio, October 6.—(AP)—Governor James M. Cox, at the request of the Associated Press, issued the following statement, giving his position on Florida relief:

"Governor Martin has brought me into his controversy with the Red Cross because of my ownership of The Miami Daily News. Chairman Payne, of the Red Cross, announced that it was impossible to procure funds in the north adequate for the relief needed in Florida because Governor Martin was sending messages to state and city executives throughout the country to the effect that outside help was not needed. Governor Martin denied this, whereupon The Miami Daily News reproduced Martin's personal message to the governor of New Hampshire.

HOW TO GET RID OF CATARRH

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Method That Clears Out the Head, Nose and Throat

There is no disease more offensive or disagreeable, or one disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as catarrh. You can now get rid of it by a simple, safe, pleasant home remedy discovered by Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist.

Dr. Blosser's remedy is composed of medicinal herbs, flowers and berries which you smoke in a small pipe or cigarette. The warm smoke, when inhaled into the passages of the head, nose, throat and lungs and carries medicine where sprays, douches and salves cannot possibly reach. Its effect is soothing and healing and is entirely harmless. It contains no cubebs or tobacco, and may be used by children as well as adults.

If you suffer from any catarrhal trouble, catarrhal deafness, asthma, hay fever, bronchial irritations, or are subject to frequent colds, get from any druggist a pocket-size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes, and prove for yourself their pleasant, beneficial effects. (Adv.)

Loan Proposed To Stabilize Belgian Franc

Brussels, Belgium, October 6.—(AP)—The Belgian government, under the dictatorial powers recently conferred upon it by parliament, is expected to announce shortly a plan for stabilization of the Belgian franc.

This will include a foreign loan of from $50,000,000 to $60,000,000, of which New York will be expected to take at least half. The remainder will be distributed to London, Amsterdam, Berlin and Basle. No steps have been taken to negotiate such a loan, however, nor has the cabinet yet formally announced its decision.

M. Franck, governor of the Bank of Belgium, who has been in London, today related to the council of ministers the result of his London conversations. Although no statement has been issued, it is understood that he informed the cabinet that the principal banks of issue in countries having the gold standard had promised their aid to the Belgian National bank.

The financiers who gathered in London to discuss Belgium's stabilization program included Pierre Jay of the New York Federal Reserve bank; Dr. Vissering, head of the Netherlands State bank; Herr Bachmann, governor of the Swiss National bank; Dr. Schacht, president of Reichsbank, and Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England.

8:25-8:30—Special music.

8:30-8:45—"Winning to Christ Through the Organized Class," Rev. E. E. Jones.

8:45-9:05—"Making the Bible a Living Book in the Organized Class," Dr. W. H. Houghton.

9:05-9:25—"Something New for Your Social," Miss Nancy Wallace and young people of Druid Hills Baptist church.

Attorney General George M. Napier, announced Wednesday, that the U. S. supreme court accepted his oral motion that the arbitration agreement between the state of Georgia and the Ducktown, Tenn., copper interests, arising out of the state's suit for damages to crops and birds from fumes from the copper plant's smelter, be continued at the request of both contending parties.

This explanation met with approval of the supreme court and the case was allowed to pend on the docket while the two sides are carrying out the arbitration agreement.

Under the present plan state authorities meet with officials of the copper company once each year to adjust all damage claims. Mr. Napier said, and by this method considerable court litigation is eliminated.

TWO BOYS STRUCK BY AUTO SUFFER SLIGHT INJURIES

Harry Mays, 6, and his brother, W. L. Mays, 5, of 112 Richardson street, were slightly injured when knocked down by an automobile early this afternoon on Mitchell street near Whitehall street, according to police reports, which gave the name of the driver of the car as Willis Mauldin, of Bolton, Ga.

Mauldin was going east on Mitchell street when the two boys ran suddenly into the street and in front of his automobile, he told police. Mauldin immediately stopped his car, picked up the injured youngsters and carried them to Grady hospital. He then drove by the police station and reported the accident to Call Officers W. A. Goode and John D. Wood. The injuries of the boys consisted of slight bruises and cuts about the legs.

"My Life Story"

Written by Rudolph Valentino

33D INSTALLMENT.

Last night we had another fascinating evening. We dined with the Baron Fassin in his apartment in the Piazza Titoni, and from there we motored to his castle at Nettuno.

It is an hour and a half's drive from Rome, right along the sea coast. The sea coast of Italy! And the castle is rebuilt from the original plans found in the original ruins.

I walked through the moonlight. And a creepy feeling came over me. I felt that these walls, if they could only speak, could tell tremendous tales, still fascinating.

Stories of love. Stories of lust. Stories of murder, swift, treacherous and unexpected. Especially if gentlemen like Caesar Borgia could rise up and talk—if they would talk at all.

I think it would fascinate me to live in such a place. Perhaps I have very steady nerves, or even, an imagination that needs such stimulation. I have always felt strangely akin with places of this kind.

I am not afraid of the dead, or of ghosts. The whole story and lore of grisly fears that have shaken the human race at thought or apprehension of meeting with the dead is quite foreign to me. I am not afraid of anything pertaining to the life beyond.

Believes in Ghosts.

And it isn't because I do not believe in it. It is because I do. I believe in the supernatural. But I don't believe that there is anything there I would, or could, be afraid of.

It seems to me that we have more cause to be afraid of the living than of those who have gone on, shaking off, as they do, the lusts and cruelties of the body.

I believe extraordinarily in supernatural manifestations, although I personally have never seen any. I am a great believer in the immortality of the soul. That is absolutely beyond any doubt. There must be some ultimate destination or purpose for us.

I know there has been a lot of fake surrounding Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's experiments, but undoubtedly and all the same it is a fact that there is something within ourselves, not an organ, which we call a soul, and which cannot cease to live simply because our bodies cease to be active.

What this is we can't tell—until we reach there. And whom should we tell? We don't know that 'here' is any tomorrow. Yet we believe there is, implicitly. And we go on planning for it, although we have no tangible proof that the intangible fact of another dawn will ever amaze the world, let alone our individual selves.

Our bodies are merely shells, in which we can hear, if we listen with ears attuned, the everlasting murmur of the sea.

Beginning of Life.

What the average man calls death. I believe to be merely the beginning of life itself. We emerge from out of its narrow confines like a chrysalis. Why call it death? Or, if we give it the name of death, why surround it with dark fears and sick imaginings?

If you live according to your conscience (if you have one, that is), and you go on through life living according to the dictates of that conscience—in other words, never doing anything which you might yourself be forced to question in discomfort—what is there to fear? What else, what more, can you do?

By this I do not mean so much living in the religious sense of the word as living righteously, living squarely. Not only as far as other people are concerned, but so far as you, yourself, are concerned.

No Dark Corners.

A life lived in this way has no dark corners in which ghosts can hide. And a life lived like this would need to have no fear of ghosts seen, then, by the strong, free light of day. There would be no reason then, to fear ghosts any more than the man who is meeting some live person, like an assassin or thief, or something of the sort, in a dark corner, than I would a ghost. I would know the assassin's bad intentions. He would mean to do me harm, and would probably succeed.

We had a delightful supper at the castle. Certainly the possibility of ghosts didn't affect my appetite, nor Natacha's, either. That much I can testify to, with positiveness.

It is a marvelous spot, and one to which Mussolini often goes for a rest. The Baron showed us the room where Mussolini sleeps when he goes there.

"The Great Lover" pours out his soul in tomorrow's installment of his absorbing life. Natacha is forced to return to Nice, being unable to stand the hardships of the trip. "I am lonely," he writes. "It is like a mist from the sea striking chill to the bone. If it wasn't that it has been my life's dream to return home, I'd give it all up and rush back to Natacha." He stands between love and duty. Don't miss tomorrow's paper. Ruby shows he was never more the master lover than he does in this chapter of his confessions.

UTAH'S WAR GOVERNOR
CALLED BY DEATH

Salt Lake City, Utah, October 6.—(AP)—Simon Ramberg, 81, Utah's war governor, whose term of office began in 1917 and was completed in 1921, died here today.

Mr. Ramberg enjoyed the unique distinction of being Utah's first democratic governor as well as the first "Gentile" governor of the state.

A Study In Contrasts

This Man placed his savings on the sound and systematic basis outlined in the Sessions Savings Plan. He was not a slave to money, but made his savings work for him. As a result of this sound policy his life problems have been solved and a comfortable future is assured.

HE DID

This man has toiled all his life but the future holds nothing for him. He failed to make provisions for tomorrow. His earnings drifted away, his children were inadequately educated, and the dreary picture of a poverty-stricken old age is ever before him.

CHRYSLER NOW OUTDOES EVEN CHRYSLER BEAUTY

For three years the motor car industry has endeavored to emulate and imitate the Chrysler design and practice, the Chrysler performance and appearance, inaugurated by the first Chrysler "70".

But never for a moment in all that time has it been possible to mistake any other car for a Chrysler or a Chrysler for any other car.

And now the gap between Chrysler and the commonplace, Chrysler and the conventional, is about to be made more marked than ever.

A new Chrysler "70", will appear upon October 9.

You may safely count upon the same shock of delighted surprise in this new "70"—the same feeling that old conceptions of beauty have been relegated to oblivion—as you experienced three years ago.

See Sunday papers for complete details.

17 NEW STREET CARS PLACED IN SERVICE

Seventeen of 60 new street cars ordered for service on city lines have arrived in Atlanta and have been placed in service, it was announced.

Wednesday by the Georgia Railway & Power company. Other cars are scheduled to arrive on an average of six each week, and will be placed in operation upon arrival.

The 17 new cars have been put on the West Fair and Irwin-Boulevard West Hunter lines, and new cars will be placed on the Buckhead-Oakthorpe line within the next week. All of the new cars are being used to replace old equipment.

The cars are identical in design and appearance with the 40 one-man safety cars purchased and placed in service last year. They are designed for one-man operation and features include latest safety devices, low steps and wide doors. Each car has a seating capacity of 48.

Addition of the remaining cars ordered within this year to 70, the largest number of new cars purchased in any single year of Atlanta's street railway history. This figure eclipses even the record set last year when 60 new cars were purchased.

TELFAIR 'MODEL FARM' ATTRACTS INTEREST

Demonstration of the grouping of farm buildings on adjacent farms so that all the advantages of better rural community living can be obtained is given in a miniature model farm colony in the Telfair county exhibit in the agricultural building at the South-eastern fair.

The model shows how four land lots can be divided into eight farms with the buildings grouped properly to secure the best advantage.

"This movement means a great deal to Georgia in the development and settlement of her idle lands, and every representative business man in Georgia should not only see this exhibit, but give more study and attention to the rehabilitation of the idle lands of the state along modern settlement lines," states an announcement regarding the exhibit.

"No state in the union has better physical conditions and economic advantages for successful and diversified farming than Georgia with her low land values and available acreage, the announcement continues.

Another exhibit in the Telfair county booth, prepared under direction of the Telfair county board of trade and the Telfair County Land company, shows a miniature "ready-to-go" farm, showing seven fields as follows: Fifty acres pastures and timber, 15 acres corn, 10 acres cotton, 10 acres fruit, 5 acres tobacco, 5 acres truck and 5 acres cane, orchard and building improvements. Those in charge of the exhibit claim that it will meet the requirements of the better class of dairy and truck farmers of the northern and middle western states.

THOMAS COUNTY CLUB GIRLS PLAN EXHIBIT

'Special Value' Sale Opens At Decatur Furniture Store

After three years of successful operation Bryant and Thaxton, furniture and house furnishings dealers of Decatur, are celebrating the third anniversary of the firm's business, with a special value sale on every article in stock. The special value sale will be in progress during the entire month of October, it was announced by W. G. Bryant, member of the firm.

Just three years ago the Decatur furniture house was opened and was the first exclusive furniture store in Decatur and DeKalb county, it is said. The firm name has been changed to Bryant and Thaxton, and under the new regime the business has prospered by leaps and bounds.

"We have conducted our business, Mr. Bryant said Wednesday, "in such manner that with the patronage of the best people of the community we have been able to succeed to a marked degree, and to grow with the town. We feel proud of our customers and success. We desire to continue to grow and become an integral part of the community and to assume our part and place as citizens. At all times we offer honest merchandise and service as cheap as can be had, quality and service considered."

"We endeavor at all times to be of real worth and service to our customers and to give them the benefit of our years of experience in the furniture business, for we have been in the business long enough to know the grades and when we tell a customer a piece of furniture is such—we mean just that—and to not be misleading in any of our sales. We buy for cash and take all cash discounts and buy as cheap as any dealer. We have a much less operating expense than the city dealers; therefore, we can undersell our city competitors on the same grade of merchandise and they can not compete with us in service. "A dollar spent with us stays in

W. G. BRYANT.

Decatur and helps to build our schools and streets and to increase our property values and the Decatur people are coming more and more to the realization of this fact, and are trading at home, where they get the most for their money, as our records go to prove.

"For the month of October we are going to give special values on all lines carried by us for the appreciation of the splendid support that the public has given this store since we opened our doors three years ago."

Rogers Brings Fresh Store Of Wit From Foreign Lands

Personal idiosyncrasies of kings and queens, statesmen and prominent figures of all kinds in European countries will be divulged to Atlantians by Will Rogers, most famous of living humorists, when he appears at Wesley Memorial auditorium on Tuesday, October 19. Will is coming for his second Atlanta appearance, as the opening attraction this season of the artist series of the Southern Musical bureau. With him again will be the De Reszke singers, a male quartet which scored tremendously one year.

Will Rogers, "America's Unofficial Ambassador to the World," is a unique figure in the amusement world. There has never been another like him, and it is doubtful if a successor ever appears. For one unique characteristic he has voluntarily deserted Broadway, where he was the most popular individual stage favorite for years, to appear before and mingle with the people in the wide spaces all over the continent.

Last year, before an audience that did not quite fill Wesley Memorial, Will scored a tremendous success. That "not quite full" description is certain not to apply this year, for Rogers isn't a man to lose an audience who won't be back, bringing a friend or two. And then, again, as Will told the Emory Glee club when he met them in London a couple of months ago, "I understand that Atlanta has just about moved back from Miami."

Seats for the Rogers and De Reszke singing are now on sale at the box office in the Phillips & Crew Piano company, Peachtree and Ellis streets. Reservations may also be made for the other four attractions of the series—Elsie Janis and four associate artists; Feodor Chaliapin, the great Russian basso, with his own opera company in his favorite opera, "The Barber of Seville"; Frieda Hempel, and Mikhail Kordis, with the Russian ballet. The latter three will be at the city auditorium.

First Rehearsal Held by Atlanta Symphony Artists

Atlanta, ever growing, is gathering into her citizenship new and better artists in all lines every year. This is true, perhaps, in the realm of music than in any other, the reputation of this city as the musical center of the southeast being a matter of national knowledge.

Music lovers will see this acquisition of musical talent evidenced when the Atlanta Symphony orchestra gives its first concert of the coming season on Sunday afternoon, November 4, at Loew's Grand theater.

The orchestra, 70 strong, met last Sunday and, under the baton of Conductor Enrico Liede, held its first rehearsal. Half a dozen new musicians showed at once their artistic gifts to Atlanta, and it already is certain that the degree of advancement registered by the orchestra this season will be greater than ever before.

In addition to the improved orchestra, the eight Sunday afternoon concerts during the coming fall and winter will be featured by a series of guest artists, numbering some of the greatest vocal and instrumental stars of the country. The first concert will bring, in this role, Kathryn Meisle, the most sensational of the new operatic contraltos, who made her debut with the Chicago Civic Opera company in November, 1923, and has since created a furor of enthusiasm wherever she has appeared.

Because of the law prohibiting sale of seats on Sundays, admission to these concerts cannot be purchased at the door. All reserved seats are held for members of the Atlanta Symphony association, and memberships, at varying prices according to the location of seats desired, may now be secured at the box office at Phillips & Crew Piano company, Peachtree and Ellis streets. Two seats in the orchestra for the entire series cost $16, and a single seat $10. Loge seats are $20 for two and $12 singly. Specially arranged for students, balcony seats are $10 for two or $6 for one. Special rates are made on the boxes.

PALMER FIRM OPENS FOURTH CHAIN STORE

The Palmer Clothing Manufacturing company, which recently established one of its chain stores in this city, is to open its second Chattanooga store, the fourth in the chain. The new store will be on Market street, in the heart of Chattanooga's business district, it was learned here Wednesday.

"The opening of this second store in Chattanooga," stated C. E. Kester, manager of the Atlanta store, "is evidence of the growing popularity of our factory direct to wearer policy. Here in Atlanta our sales have been universally good, even though the warm weather has militated against an early demand for fall suits."

It is said that ceremonies incidental to the opening of the new Palmer clothes store in Chattanooga will be broadcast at noon over W. D. D. 2, 256 meters. One of Chattanooga's popular orchestras will provide music and various city officials will make addresses, Mr. Kester was advised.

Shorter Dresses Create Interest In Pattern Floors

Short skirts have been blamed for everything from the fall of Rome to acute syphilis.

Now those self same are blamed for the favor of pattern floors with decorators and architects.

A number of decorators have come forth with assertions that shorter and shorter skirts have brought about this new interest in pattern floors. Certainly shorter skirts demand variety and prettiness in shoes; and when shoes are looked at floors are seen.

All of which is another good reason for more attention by decorators and architects to floor designs.

Think of the modish rooms one sees in magazine and movie and how pattern floors are creeping into favor with decorators and architects.

Every woman who plays the hostess on her sun porch or who opens the front door to friends and guests is conscious of the beauty of her floors—or distressed by the lack of it.

Floors For The Asking.

But now, any woman with imagination and good taste, can have floors that are not only beautiful in themselves, but a real aid to simple, effective room decoration.

Local stores this week are displaying new pattern floors of linoleum. We say "linoleum" right here because when you see them you'll never associate the patterns and colorings with what the word usually means.

For instance, have you ever seen linoleum with a "textured" surface? The usual kind of linoleum has a smooth, regular surface, but there are now new patterns in which the pattern is slightly raised, or embossed.

In this new embossed linoleum brick-shaped tiles are set off by neat interliners and these interliners are slightly pressed in beneath the surface of the goods.

Cleaning Simple.

"How about cleaning?" you ask. "Won't dirt catch in these interliners?" A natural question, indeed. But the depressions are so very slight that there is no possibility of dirt accumulating in them. They are pressed in just enough, in fact, to reflect a pleasing effect of light and shadows.

In addition to these patterns there are new 'handcraft' tiles in which the natural colorings of oven-baked tile effects are especially suitable for the sun porch, breakfast room, or hall and there are all-over patterns and simple Jasper's that can be used for any room in your house with really charming results.

Engineering Society To Discuss Problems In Atlanta Meeting

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers will meet October 11 in the Chamber of Commerce building at 7:45 o'clock for the purpose of discussing problems of effective management under local conditions. Talks will be made by prominent members of the society in Atlanta.

C. E. Coolidge is chairman of the local section and also is professor of mechanical engineering at Georgia Tech. The program will include talks by Norman E. Elson, William A. Hansell, Allen M. Schoen, Robert S. Peckham, R. R. Ritchie and F. H. Neely.

Bambino Gets Three Homers as Yanks Win Fourth Tilt

Games Standing Two Each; St. Louis Uses Five Hurlers Futilely

Ruth Breaks World Series Record With Homing Smashes.
First Made on First Ball Pitched Him in Initial Trip to Plate.

dinal rooters had become so aroused that they yelled for Ruth to make a fourth homer when he came to the bat in the eighth and boomed Hallahan, St. Louis pitcher, when the latter walked the Yankee slugger.

Nothing like the Babe's clouting has ever been seen in baseball's classic. His first two circuit wallpops came in the first and third innings, each time off the first ball pitched by Flint Rhem. The young Cardinal right-hander tried a fast curve in the opening frame and the Babe lofted it high over the upper deck of the right field grand stand. In the third inning, Rhem shifted to a slow ball of the variety that had been poison to Ruth previously in the series but the Babe nailed it and drove it on a line far out over the roof of the right field bleachers.

No one was on base to benefit from either of these clouts but Earl Combs was on first when Ruth slammed out his third homer off Herman Bell in the sixth inning. The clout was three and two this time as Bell worked cautiously on the Yankee star but the Cardinal twirler made the mistake of trying to slip a fast one over the plate. Ruth took a toehold and smashed the ball on a line and high into the spectators in the centerfield bleachers. It was the most resounding whack of the three and established a long distance record for Sportsman's park.

Never before has the Babe connected for three homers in a single game, where a pennant or world's series was involved, although he has done it in exhibitions. He picked a dramatic and timely spot to do the trick this afternoon but he made the statisticians groggy trying to tally up the records that tumbled as a result.

FIRST INNING.

YANKES—While the band played

"The Star-Spangled Banner," the Cardinals took the field. Rhem warmed up a bit and seemed to have plenty of speed. Combs up.

Strike 1 called, the first pitch was fast inside. Ball 1, inside low. Strike 2, swung. Foul. Combs struck out, letting a fast curve break over the plate, striking out.

Koenig up. Strike 1, called. Strike 2, swung. Koenig struck out, taking a called strike.

Ruth up. Ruth got a home run over the right field stands, hitting the first pitch. The ball fell into the adjoining street.

Meusel up. Ball 1, outside. Ball 2, low inside. Strike 1, swung. Foul. Strike 2, Ball 3, high. Foul. Foul. Foul. Meusel got a base on balls, the fourth ball being outside.

Gehrig up. Ball 1, low. On the hit and run play Gehrig singled into right. Meusel went to third on the throw. Meusel tried for the plate and was out. Southworth to Hornsby to O'Farrell.

One run, two hits, no errors.

CARDINALS—Douthit up. Douthit hit out a bit to deep short, hitting the first ball pitched.

Southworth up. Ball 1, outside. Ball 2, low. Foul. Strike 1, Foul. Strike 2, Ball 3, high and outside. Southworth singled into center. Douthit going to third.

Hornsby up. The Yankee infield played back. Ball 1, inside. Foul. Strike 1, Strike 2, called. Douthit scored on Hornsby's single to right.

Southworth stopping at second. Shocker was now warming up for New York.

Bottomley up. Ball 1, low outside. Strike 1, swung. Foul. Strike 2, Bottomley sent a fly to Ruth, the runners holding their bases.

Bell up. Bell flied out to Combs, 1, called, Ball 3, low inside. Lazzeri

Qualifying Round of City Golf Tournament Today

East Lake Is Scene Of Local Tourney; Many Stars Entered

Play Will Start at 8:30 This Morning With 95 Entered in Tourney—Champion Not Entered When List Was Turned In But May Join Field Today.

BY C. F. THOMPSON.

Beginning at 8:30 o'clock this morning, 95 golfers that have already registered as entrants, and possibly many more that will arrive themselves of the last day entrance permitted today, will tee off at the East Lake Country club for the qualifying round in quest of the city golf championship now resting on the head of Veazey Rainwater.

Unless Rainwater enters the tourney today, he will not defend his crown this year, for the entrant list compiled by club officials Wednesday night did not contain his name.

However, there are many champions listed among those who will strive for the winners trophy offered by the Gulf Refining company and the city title.

Many Stars Entered. Among them will be Gene Cook, twice state champion; Harry Ginn, twice champion of the Brookhaven links; L. R. Hunter, who holds the championship of the West End course, which title he recently won by the third straight time; and Lanier Reed, holder of the city junior championship.

Chick Ridley is entered, and in the qualifying round to be played today he is paired with J. W. West, who is also a golfer of no small ability.

Watts Ginn, who was considered a likely entrant in the tourney failed to enter Wednesday, and it is not known whether he will.

Palmetto. 8:30—Lanier Reed plays D. Todd. 9:00—A. M. Parker, Jr. plays R. M. Hubert. 9:15—A. S. Murphy plays J. P. Vickers. 9:30—E. E. Butler plays W. E. Bridges. 9:45—Hunt Clements plays R. A. Whitaker. 3:45—M. B. Benton plays K. R. Hancock. 4:00—H. W. Grady, Jr. plays (tee).

Entry List Open

While an entry list containing 95 names of entrants in the city championship tourney was made up at the East Lake Country club Wednesday, entries have not yet closed and all desiring to enter may enter today, club officials announced.

Golfers desiring to enter the tourney may do so any time today, but officials of the club said Wednesday night that late entrants would facilitate starting by entering before the first starting at 8:30 this morning.

Today's entrants will also be paired with those already entered who drew lives.

10:35—Gene Cook plays Dr. R. F. Jones. 11:00—Howard Mass plays Lewis Carter. 11:05—Ben A. Jones plays T. G. Hannahan. 11:10—Frank Dahney plays Luke Elliott. 11:15—P. N. Allen plays (tee). 11:20—M. H. G. M. A. CADETS WORKINGHARD FOR NEXT TILT

BY ED NEWSOM.

Coach Morrow led his aggregation of fighting G. M. A. Cadets into the second round of their 1926 schedule this week with a brisk signal and tackling workout.

On Friday the G. M. A. gridiron warriors are slated to journey to Monroe and do battle with "Red" Barron's far-famed Monroe Aggies. Barron's men have become a terror to all the neighboring schools on account of their heavy experienced line and their fleet, well-coached backs, but the G. M. A. outfit, which boasts of a well-balanced team, is scheduled to put on a tough fight, and unless the proverbial doppelganger is severely denied, the College Park lads will emerge on the long end of the score.

Prospects in the Georgia Military Academy camp have brightened considerably with the return of "Speedy" Bob McWhorter, the Florida Flash and elsewhere noted as the crack quarter on last year's squad. "Shorty" Booth, Sharis and Baxter, the other candidates for the signal caller's position will have to do some tall humming to keep step with this human cyclone.

At the same time that the backfield has been strengthened by the return of the veteran quarterback, it has been severely crippled by the loss of Captain Ben Dishman, star end, who has recently been called to his home in Kentucky.

Although Dishman left a gap in the line, his shoes are to be ably filled by either "Tiny" Broadfield, or "Gad" Bryan, two veteran wingmen from last year's squad. "Red" Sorrell, the Grange of Atlanta men football circles, and a triple-threat man of no mean ability, will fill the captain's position by virtue of the fact that he now holds the alternate job. The G. M. A. coaches have a wealth of material from which to choose, and they should encounter very little difficulty in rounding into shape a formidable team to represent the College Park institution this season.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Babe Gets Mad.

Perhaps the St. Louis fans will let the Bambino pursue his slumbers in peace from this time forth, that is if the story told yesterday by Mr. Herman Ruth is true. The Babe declares that he was angry when he went into the game yesterday because the revelry of the St. Louis fans kept him awake the night before.

Perhaps the Babe figured a good way to keep the noise down and to put the fans from the Missouri valley metropolis in their respective places was to go out and win a Ball game from Mr. Hornsby and the rest of the home boys. Well, the Swastika Sultan did that thing and he not only broke the hearts of several thousand fans but he broke some several records with his three circuit smashes.

In the first place Mr. Ruth hit a ball out of the city limits—literally—he established a record for long hits in Sportman's park; then he established a record for total home runs in world series play by bringing his total to seven. He clouted one in 1921, three in 1923 and three yesterday, and the series is not over yet. There were several other records broken by that third smash of the Babe's Wednesday but that is not the most important part of it so far as the present series is concerned.

If history repeats itself the Yankees are due to go on a hitting spree. If the Yankees do go on a hitting spree even the great pitching staff, under the command of Rogers Hornsby, may fail to halt the barrage. It has happened many times before. Babe Ruth has been in a listless frame of mind and then suddenly he snapped into action with a loud report only to find that his teammates think he is playing "stump the leader" and they all follow suit.

Incidentally, Rogers Hornsby may be in a bad plight for pitchers. The ancient Alexander, who did so nobly in the second game should not be used today, though Hornsby may be forced to call on him. Five hurlers were used yesterday, which leaves but three first-string pitchers to select from for today. Huggins has many selections to make and it is not unlikely that Herb Pennock, the long portside who won the first game, may be given another chance.

Tech Facing Job.

We had the pleasure of watching Hank Bjorkman's "Black Devils" demonstrate the Darwinian theory with the Tech varsity Wednesday afternoon and it was a sight to behold.

Hank's lads were running some of Tulane's trick plays and to pour us it looked more like a complicated Virginia reel than a football game. If Tulane uses the plays which were accredited to her by the "Black Devils" Wednesday, the football fans will find many a thrill at Grant field Saturday.

The passing plays particularly are positively bizarre. They pass the ball around like they were playing some pretty parlor game and then suddenly someone decides to hit the line.

ALL JOKING ASIDE—the Tulane plays which were seen at Tech flats yesterday are proof enough that Tech is matched Saturday against no ordinary plan of attack. The Green wave plays went through the varsity like water through a sieve on several occasions and Tech is going to have her hands full to stop them Saturday even with the advance knowledge at hand.

One thing we believe is in Tech's favor. It does not seem humanly possible for one team to master any such number of difficult plays as Tulane seems to have done without losing some measure of punch in some of them.

There is something else which should not be forgotten when you are offering to give Tech and many points in the betting. This is the first time for some years that Tech has been "THE UNDER DOG" in the dope before the Tulane game and that should serve to put more fight in the Golden Tornado than has been seen there this year.

MODERN FOOTBALL

BY BENNY FRIEDMAN
Captain and Quarterback Coaches' 1925 All-American Football Team.

(Copyright, 1926, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)
"Tail" Jones selected a 1925 All-American team, they were unanimous on one player. Benny Friedman of Michigan led the all-star selection both as quarter and captain. Friedman was the leading scorer of the Big Ten conference, one of the greatest in the country for the year, though he had never called his own signal inside an opponent's 20-yard line. He is one of the most famous football generals of all time; one of the three great passers the game has developed; last year he scored 28 goals from placement.

He is a dangerous runner because of his change of pace and straight-arm and a great blocker and tackler.

This year his strategy places him as the leader of the Michigan eleven.

In the following series of 15 articles Friedman has written not only for the expert, for coaches and players, but for the spectator. He makes the subtleties of football intelligible to the layman as he introduces the refinements of his own masterful offense in the game.

THE FORWARD PASS.

It is hard to tell you just what happens on a forward pass because there are so many passes and different passes result in different action. However, I will select one of the simplest of the better passes.

The defense left end rushes in to intercept the pass or tackle the passer before he can get the ball away. He is blocked out by the fullback. The two guards, protecting the passer, pick off the first man through, usually the tackle, because the tackle always is used to rush the play. The two tackles of the passer's team have closed the hole left by the guards when they came out to protect the passer. The center has also remained in line to block.

The passer's two guards and center are trying to hold the opposing two guards and the center also, depending upon the defense formation. As a rule, the defensive center drops back and tries to intercept the ball or break up the play as soon as he sees a pass coming.

The right end goes down 10 yards and veers to the left at an angle of 45 degrees. He does this to pull the defensive right halfback out of position.

The left end goes down and also veers to the left, to draw the left halfback out of position.

The front, or right halfback of the passer's side, goes down about eight yards and veers to the right.

The man in quarterback position smokes off to the left, past the line and scrimmage and then cuts at an angle over center. When he angles off to the left he draws the fullback away and when he shifts suddenly to the right he gains a few steps on the fullback.

Passer Has Choice. The defensive center will probably follow the right halfback but the halfback has the edge because he is faster and can get away from the center.

Now the stage is set for the pass. The passer has his choice.

His No. 1 choice is the right halfback. He is usually free because others have been decoyed away and there is no other man to the right of him, where he is running.

No. 2 choice is the man who came from quarterback position, cutting over center.

No. 3 choice is the right end who goes down and cuts at an angle of 45 degrees to the left. If the halfback does not follow him he is free.

The other end, the fourth eligible receiver, is ignored. He is on the other side of the field, calling for a difficult throw. He has been used as a decoy and has drawn a man with him. The passer picks a free man and if he has two or three free men he picks the one farthest down the field. Chance for interception becomes more remote, the gain of a completed pass will be longer and the other free man, or men, can interfere for him if he makes the catch.

Linemen Real Heroes. Football's heroes are the men who Qualifying play in the annual women's golf championship play at Piedmont park will begin next Monday with indications that more than two score golfers will be entered in the matches. The play which will be for the Maier and Berkle cup, was postponed from Monday of this week because of the hot weather. All women in the city are eligible for entrance, according to the officials in charge of the tourney and membership in a city club is not required. All entrants are required, however, to bring three cards from any course in the city to Wallace Lindquist, professional at Piedmont in order that handicaps may be established.

everything in running with the ball that you would want a back to do but few ever realized how Grange reached the broken fields of Illinois' opponents. To make Grange successful Coach Robert C. Zuppke developed one of the finest blocking teams the country has seen. When Grange took the pass from center there were ten men moving ahead and blocking out the defense players. Ten men were breaking a path for Grange, moving down the rushing defenders and enabling Grange to make his way past the scrimmage line. There he was able to shift for himself.

Ending his career at Illinois the year that Grange made his phenomenal start was McMillen. This powerful lineman was one of the greatest guards who ever lived. He was as fine a guard as Grange was a back, but little fame came to him. Without McMillen Grange could never have started as brilliantly as he did but McMillen was a lineman and the line men do most of the work while the backs gather in the glory.

Time a Great Factor. I have had some success as a forward passer and kicker but I owe that success to a brilliant line. I do not believe a modern football has ever seen a better line than the one Michigan had last year. I doubt if there has been another one as good. It is not difficult to stand behind a line like that and throw forward passes.

You know that the defense men cannot reach you and you take your time, have steady and deliberate aim, to throw the ball to the spot where you want to throw it at the exact moment when you want to throw it. No man can be a successful forward passer unless he has good line men in front of him to block off the rushing opposing forwards.

Memphis Entry Wins. Little Memphis, the marvelous mare, owned by Miss Eleanor Edmon, of Memphis, paced to victory in the 2:20 race for the Piedmont hotel cup, one, one and two, taking the first heat almost by a nose from David Fellows in 2:08 1/2, her best mark up to date.

Guy Brown, driven by Kelly, won the 2:15 trot with a mark of 2:11 1/2 in the final heat, the slowest race of the afternoon, while Walnut Grattan, forecast as the favorite by The Constitution Wednesday morning, took the 2:25 pace in one, two, one, covering the distance in 2:13 1/2 in the first heat.

George Stiles piloted Walnut Grattan, and although taking off behind the field several times, he guided her handily into victory.

Entries in today's races, which will be featured by the 2:22 trot for the Ansley Hotel cup, were said by the railbirds to be so square matched that each race seemed anybody's race and the horse that wins will have to lower his own record several seconds.

Today's entries are: 2:22 trot, $1,000 stake and added money and Ansley cup, Juliette Daugherty (Stiles), Sir Ormonde Dillon (Pearce), Peter Lullwater (Candler), 2:18 trot, $500 purse, Clay Simpson (Armstrong), Prosac (S. Yellow Jackets Weak Against Black Devils

BY CARTER BARRON.

Placed on defense against the Tulane formations as portrayed by the indefatigable war horses, the "Black Devils" of Hank Bjorkman, which for the occasion were supplemented by the personages of Coaches Don Miller and Bjorkman, Tech's varsity looked woefully weak Wednesday afternoon.

More than once the boys were completely fooled by the deceptive attack of the Green Wave imitators. Several times passes that in actual games would have meant touchdowns were completed by Coach Miller's and Bjorkman's boys while the Techsters, hands on hips, gazed in wonderment as to how the ball got away so easily.

The consensus among the Techsters is that they are for once the "underdog" in the coming fray with Tulane and the best result of this impression can create is being worked, the instillation of an unbeatable fighting spirit within the hearts of the Tornado that will possibly carry them to victory Saturday.

The lineup that played varsity on Wednesday and will probably start the game against the New Orleans Green Wave Saturday, is: Pool, center; Martin and Angier, guards; Tharpe and Hood, tackles; Marshall and Crowley, ends; Brewer at quarterback; Murray at fullback; Parham at left halfback, and Barron at right halfback.

Old Records Broken In Lakewood Races

Every horse that paced or trotted to victory in the four-event bill on the Southeastern Fair race program Wednesday afternoon broke his own best previous win race record by at least two seconds to win, it was disclosed in tabulation of results at the fair grounds Wednesday night.

Walter Candler's Lucy C. stepped the 2:10 trot for the Atlanta Baltimore cup, one and two, her time of 2:08 1/2 and 2:08 3/4 in the heats she won lowering her best previous time of 2:10 1/2 registered in the first event Monday which she won handily, one-one-one under Mr. Candler's skillful reining.

Memphis Entry Wins. Little Memphis, the marvelous mare, owned by Miss Eleanor Edmon, of Memphis, paced to victory in the 2:20 race for the Piedmont hotel cup, one, one and two, taking the first heat almost by a nose from David Fellows in 2:08 1/2, her best mark up to date.

PARK VISITORS STOP HERE FOR SERVICE

The Atlanta Motorist is always within easy reach of a Reed Oil Station. They stand like sentinels, on every well-traveled boulevard in the city. No less than 22 of them are to be found about town.

As an example of the ideal sites selected, consider the Reed Station at the corner of Pryor and Garnett streets. Motorists traveling to Grant Park and to Lakewood find it perfectly located for their needs. Residents of the south side use it constantly. It is the only filling station on the right hand side of the street coming into town.

Like all Reed Stations, this one dispenses Blu-Streak Gasoline, that extra power, extra mileage gasoline, and Hyvis Motor Oil (pure 100 per cent Pennsylvania). Three visible pumps recall the fact that the Reed Oil Company was the first to introduce this type of pump in Atlanta. The drain pit, which makes possible perfect crank case, rear end and spring lubrication, also reminds the motorists of the fact that this feature was also introduced by Reed.

Entrance to the station is possible from either Pryor or Garnett streets, and two drives insure quick service. To further insure absolute satisfaction for Reed patrons great care has been taken in the selection of the entire personnel of the operating crew. As in all Reed Stations perfect service is here accompanied by utmost courtesy and sincere desire to please.

Motorists who are near the Pryor and Garnett Station, but not quite near enough to it for convenience, will find Reed Stations located at Georgia and Central avenues (Station No. 16), and at Boulevard and Fair streets (Station No. 23). Motorists out of the sections served by these stations will find easily accessible Reed Stations elsewhere in the city.

All Reed Stations are open from six-thirty in the morning until eleven at night. Through these hours every possible attention to your needs will be paid to you. Air for your tires, water for your radiator, gas for your motor, oil for perfect lubrication—you'll find them all at Reed Stations to make motoring more pleasant for you. Drive into a Reed Station. To serve you is the purpose of their existence.

Kotsanos has proven himself highly proficient before the glare of the Kleig lights and has been selected for several pictures that have gone down as masterpieces or are yet to be released.

However, Mr. Rentrop, opponent of Kotsanos here on the 13th, intimates that Kotsanos will have to be more than a film star to hold him down when they come to grips. Rentrop, known as the German Oak, has something like six or eight years' advantage in experience over the Greek and is slightly heavier, which means that Kotsanos will have to be very, very good to pin him to the mat. John Contos, the promoter, himself is one of those who leans slightly toward Kotsanos in the coming struggle, believing that the Greek's headlocks may prove a bit too much for the German.

BULLDOG TEAM LEAVES TODAY FOR YALE TILT

BY MARCUS BRYANT.

Athens, Ga., October 6.—(Special.) Georgia's Bulldogs, with Dixie's grid traditions and a thousand good wishes behind them, will start northward tomorrow for far away New Haven, where they will do battle Saturday with the Bulldogs of Yale for the fourth consecutive year. This is Georgia's lone intersectional battle of the 1926 campaign.

The squad, 33 strong, leaves early tomorrow morning over the Southern railway for Iowa, where they board the Piedmont Limited. Accompanying the squad will be Coaches Woodruff, Mehre and Crowley, the Bulldog trainer, and "Billy" Young, debonair student manager.

Dr. S. V. Sanford, Charles E. Martin and Trainer Bill Daley will also be in the official party.

Players Making Trip.

The players making the trip include Forbes, "Blackie" Smith, and LaFord, centers; Rogers, Eubanks, Leffler, Dawis, Jacobson, and Hale, guards; Luckey, Huff, "Bear" Morris, Groves, V. H. Bryant, and Langenhiser, tackles; Nash, Slivars, Woodall, Bradley, Hollis, Morris and Curran, ends; Broadnax, Johnson and Cornett, quarterbacks; Captain Morton, Estes, Hooks, Sherlock, Hatcher, and Fleming, halfbacks; Dudley, McCrary and Boland, fullbacks.

This is the identical squad that made the Virginia trip last week, with the exception of Gene Smith, a guard, who is nursing an injury, and Hollis Morris, end, moves into this vacancy.

Howell Hollis, Georgia's leading field general, and "Shaky" Kain, another backfield ace, will be left with the Athens home folks. Unable to make the Cavalier invasion last week, hope had been held that they would return for the Eli battle, but present indications point to the fact that they will not assume old positions until the Vanderbilt game, two weeks off. "Red" Smith, end, who has been on the list of casualties practically all season, and "Bub" McTigue, halfback, were also unable to make the trip.

Coach George Woodruff had his pupils engaged in a grueling scrimmage this afternoon, tapering off home activities. For two hours varsity teams were pitted against each other, devoting time in an offensive as well as defensive manner. The Bulldog charges caught a last glimpse of Yale formations, a feature only created yesterday.

A limbering up drill, following the long ride, will be held at New Haven Friday afternoon. The scheduled hour of arrival is around noon.

Joe Brown Junior High school in West End defeated the Fulton High school in an interesting football game Thursday afternoon at the Joe Brown school, 12 to 0.

Revolutionized Grid System To Be Seen In Tech-Tulane Tilt

Shaughnessy Has Been Given Free Hand With Green Wave—Attacks Intended for Bleacher-Thrillers As Well As Opponent-Puzzlers.

BY MEIGS O. FROST.

Atlanta football fans will have a chance Saturday to see something absolutely new in football, when the Green Wave of Tulane surges into the Golden Tornado, at Georgia Tech, at Grant field. For the "Shaughnessy system" of football that has brought Tulane into the national limelight these past three years, is unique in American football history. Primarily that Shaughnessy system is made to order for the folks in the bleachers. It is based on one of the most dazzling and brilliant attacks in American football today.

Down where the Mississippi broadens to meet the gulf, there is a city of nearly half-million souls that is as near football crazy as a city of such size can be. It has two seasons of festivity, Mardi Gras in February and a football Mardi Gras in fall.

The latest move to transplant the Crescent City to Grant field was indicated Wednesday when it became known that the Stratford club has chartered a special car and plans to fill it with club members headed for the Tulane-Tech game Saturday. Alike, a special car overflowing with the fair students of Sophie Newcomb College is being made up. Another special Pullman will bear the Tulane faculty.

The Tulane university band will also entrain whole for Atlanta, and the outlook is that Tulane will have stood one side of the field and Tech the other.

There will be many notable Orleansians in the entourage. Among them: Larz E. Jones, Leo W. Saul, W. W. Weston, millionaire lumberman of Bay St. Louis; John Blakemore, Paul Jahnke, J. N. Kinnebrew and Dr. L. N. Goettinger.

The team will leave New Orleans Thursday night at 10 o'clock and will arrive in Atlanta Friday morning. They will go straight to the Biltmore hotel and Friday afternoon will stage a practice session on Grant field.

The majority of the other cars planning to attend the game will arrive Saturday morning.

Every weapon in the armory of football attack is used. Terrific line plunges, straight through guards and center, form one of those weapons. Sweeping end runs behind an outright interference that sends the ball carrier dashing down the field in safety is another of those weapons. "Jack-knife" thrusts off tackle on either side of the line coupled with superb blocking that puts primary and secondary defense out of the running is yet another weapon. And some of America's most brilliant forward passing, both short passes and passes as much as 60 yards in length, gives the bleachers the sort of football that brings the fans to their feet delicious with delight.

It is only in the past three years that Coach Clark D. Shaughnessy has had the combination of splendid material and an absolutely free hand. His 10-year contract with Tulane signed last year after two seasons with only one defeat and one tie makes him the absolute football monarch of the great southern university. And this year, more brilliantly than ever, he has worked out his own system that has as its foundation the classic football taught him when he was a Minnesota star by Doc Williams, of Yale and Minnesota, father of the world-famous Minnesota shift.

Under Shaughnessy's hands the football team at Tulane has become a flexible weapon of tempered steel. He does not coach the old standard football. On attack—and Tulane's whole game is based on the theory that a football attack is the best football defense—the old names of the players' positions mean absolutely nothing any more at Tulane.

Tulane does not call the center a center any more. Hardly ever does he play the center of the line. Often he is on the end of the line—either end—as he snags the ball. There is no longer a right guard or left guard in the Tulane attack. There is a blocking guard and a running guard—and their duties and positions shift frequently from play to play. Right tackle and left tackle, too, no longer mean anything more in a Tulane attack. There is a blocking tackle and

7 Records Broken

St. Louis, October 6.—(P)—Seven new world records were put on the books today by statisticians, who found the going as tough in today's game as did the Cardinal pitching corps.

Babe Ruth personally accounted for six of the new marks, as follows:

1. Most homers for one game, 3, breaking former mark of 2, held jointly by Harry Hooper, of Red Sox; Benny Kauff, of Giants, and Ruth.

2. Most homers, total series, 7, breaking old record of 6, set by Goose Goslin in 1924 and 1925. Ruth hit one homer in 1921 and three in 1922.

3. Most total bases in one game, 12, breaking mark of 9 set up by Hooper in 1915.

4. Most extra bases, one game, 9, breaking former record of six, held jointly by Ruth, Kauff and Hooper.

5. Most runs, one game, 4, breaking record first made by Mike Donlin with Giants in 1905 and equalled by many others.

6. Most extra bases, total series, 27, breaking Ruth's own previous mark of 18.

The seventh and final record for one club's total bases in a single game was set by the Yankees, whose 14 hits totaled for 28 bases, eclipsing the mark of 27 made by the Giants in 1921.

a running tackle, and their positions are duties, too, often shift with every play.

On attack the right and left end have ceased to exist at Tulane. Any football fan knows, of course, that, eliminating the line from tackle to tackle, there remain six men on a football team. Usually they are the two ends, the two halfbacks, the quarterback and the fullback. Shaughnessy classifies all six simply as backs. Rules require that there shall be seven men on the line in every scrimmage. Instead of having a right and left end whose duties and positions are fixed, Shaughnessy uses any two of his six backs to fill out the required seven men on the line. And Tulane has plays that may shift the personnel of the two "ends" with every play.

Out of those six backs, Shaughnessy has two selected as half-carriers. Of these this year, Johnny Menville is the star. The 19-year-old little Bayou Lafourche Frenchman is the hardest man to pull down on any southern gridiron today. Frequently he has dragged a trail of five tacklers behind him.

Blocking backs or interference backs usually take up two more of the back field positions in the Shaughnessy system. All backs can call signals. And the back field holds men especially picked as punters, forward

MARINE GRID TEAM MEETS INFANTRYMEN

The Marine Corps football team from Parris Island which plays the Twenty-second Infantry at Fort McPherson on Friday, October 15, will view the Tech-Alabama game from the sidelines as the guests of Coach Alexander.

The Parris Island Big Parade expects no trouble in trimming the soldier from the fort, as they have beaten both Fort Bragg and North Georgia A. & M. by large scores while the Twenty-second Infantry were swamped by Tech frosh.

The Marine team is coached by Swede Larsen, the former all-American guard at Annapolis. Larsen was one of the outstanding stars on the Quantico Marine team which held Vanderbilt by a 3-3 tie last month and Georgetown and went through the entire 1924 season without losing a game.

pass throwers and forward pass receivers.

This system makes the Tulane team as mobile as cavalry and when coupled with the fast and husky line Tulane has this year, makes them dangerous in any conference.

The scoreless tie with Missouri last Saturday at Columbia is no criterion by which to judge the Tulane team. The grassless new field was ankle deep with sticky mud after 17 days of rain. Men could not hold their feet. Runners fell with no tuckers near them. But C. E. McBride, sports editor of the Kansas City Star, who refereed the game and is one of the Missouri Valley's acknowledged football experts, said unofficially after the game that Tulane was from two to three touchdowns better than Missouri on any field of which the condition permitted playing football at all. And Missouri has held the Missouri Valley championship these past two years.

Thirteen men of the Tulane squad that arrives in Atlanta Friday are veterans "7" men. The line-up that probably will start against Georgia Tech will include either John Walls, giant sophomore, or Harvey Wilson, veteran senior, as center. The probable guards are Roy Blackledge and Russell Butaud, both 200-pound men. "Chilly" Kirchmier, a 200-pound giant of a sophomore, and Horace (Ole Hoss) Talbot, veteran alternate captain, are the two tackles. Captain Harry Gamble and Doc Wilson, both seniors, are the ends.

In the backfield Johnny Menville, Pat Browne and Eddie Morgan are certain starters. Ike Armstrong, Lee O'Pry, Ford (Susie) Seewus, "Cajun" Lorio and Shorty Norman remain as

TECH PLANS FRATERNITY TRACK MEET

BY JULIEN SAKS.

An interfraternity cross-country race of two and one-half miles will be held at Georgia Tech Friday afternoon, October 22, at 4:15 o'clock. Each fraternity will be allowed to enter a team of five men. All five run but only the first four of the team to finish count toward points, the fifth man being an alternate in case of disqualification or the failure to finish on one of the others. Men not members of a fraternity may run and will receive individual prizes if they finish within the prize list, but only fraternities can enter teams.

This cross-country run is sponsored by the National Collegiate Society of the Spiked Shoe, an organization whose object is to promote the interests of track. The fraternity whose team wins will be awarded a trophy to be kept one year. The five members of the winning team and the first 20 men to finish will each receive a prize.

Any man may run who can fill the following requirements:

1. He must be an undergraduate Tech student.

2. He cannot have made a letter in any sport or a numeral in track in college.

3. He must not at present be out for the varsity cross-country team.

This afternoon on Grant field Coach Barron will put his track men through their second meet. Varsity and freshmen will have their events separate.

The events will be as follows: 50-yard dash; 80-yard low hurdles; 50-yard high hurdles; 75-yard dash; 220-yard dash; 440-yard dash; running high jump; running broad jump; pole vault.

The varsity cross-country team will have a time trial two and one-half miles long and the freshman cross-country one of a mile and half.

first-string men to fill out that backfield.

Eddie Morgan, undoubtedly, will do the punting. At Missouri last Saturday, standing ankle-deep in slippery mud, he booted a soggy ball once for 65 yards and once for 60.

There is no doubt about it: Tulane is coming to Atlanta grimly determined to give Georgia Tech a battle that will wipe out of New Orleans' football memories the defeat Georgia Tech gave Tulane some ten years ago when Tulane was the football joke of the south.

It's the tobacco that makes the cigarette

THE tobacco itself is the thing. The paper is merely to hold the tobacco. That's why a cigarette made with Prince Albert is the grandest home-rolled article you ever put in your mouth. Better tobacco, better cigarettes—that's the long and the short of it.

Buy yourself a tidy red tin of good old P. A. today and roll some corking-good cigarettes. Notice how easily this tobacco rolls. Doesn't fly or flutter if you happen to breathe on it. That's because Prince Albert is crimp-cut. But this is a detail. The tobacco's the thing.

You'll roll 'em and smoke 'em, morning to midnight, with this better tobacco. You'll find them cool—refreshingly cool—and sweet. Mild, too, without sacrificing that body which experienced smokers demand. Roll them with Prince Albert. No other tobacco is like it!

If you like a pipe, try P. A. this way too. P. A. is the world's favorite smoking tobacco. That first wonderful pull on your pipe will tell you why. Never a tongue-bite. Never a throat-parch. Just cool contentment, no matter how often you load up. Get some Prince Albert.

P. A. is sold everywhere. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

PRINCE ALBERT

—no other tobacco is like it!

SARTAIN, RHEIL APPEALS CONTINUE

The appeal of A. E. Sartain, former warden of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, and Lawrence Rheil, of Columbus, Ohio, both of whom were convicted here in federal court on charges of conspiracy to receive bribes, which began Wednesday before the United States court of appeals, will continue this morning at 10 o'clock.

Judges E. W. Walker, of Alabama; Rufus E. Foster, of Louisiana, and Nathan P. Bryan, of Florida, are hearing the case. Clint W. Hager, district attorney, is representing the government, and Hooper Alexander, former United States district attorney, appears for defendants.

Sartain and Rheil were convicted of conspiring to accept bribes of $10,000 from a group of prisoners serving terms for violating the prohibition law. D. D. Fletcher, deputy warden, was indicted on a similar charge, but was acquitted on his first trial and when indicted again, a mistrial resulted. Sartain was sentenced to serve 18 months in federal prison and Rheil was given a year and a day sentence.

FINAL SERVICES HELD FOR COKE SMITH DAVIS

Funeral services for Coke Smith Davis, well-known Atlanta insurance man and vice president of the Bickerstaff-Davis Insurance company, and southeastern manager of the Atlanta office of the Massachusetts Bonding company, who died Tuesday at a private hospital, were held Wednesday morning from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, The Rev. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, officiated and interment was in West View cemetery.

Palbearers were W. Tom Winn, Julian Thomas, Clarence Bell, Charlton Smith, Charles Bickerstaff and Eugene Ellaby.

A native of Greenville, S. C., Mr. Davis came to Atlanta when a small boy and entered the public schools of the city. He has been in the insurance business in Atlanta for many years and was widely known.

Christian Education Movement Program Outlined by Leader

Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, secretary of education of the North Georgia Methodist conference, announced Wednesday that the Christian education movement which started in 1921, has been of great benefit to the Methodist colleges in Georgia, among these LaGrange, Reinhardt, Young Harris, Wesleyan, Emory, University and Academy.

Under Dr. Dempsey's leadership, the North Georgia conference has made a good record in the payment of pledges given in 1921 to the Christian education movement.

"Our subscribers in the North Georgia conference have, I think, been very brave and very faithful in the payment of their pledges," Dr. Dempsey said. "I am proud of the record they have made. This year I believe they will advance beyond anything they have done heretofore."

In his work, Dr. Dempsey has had the assistance of pastors, presiding elders, church collectors, leaders of Women's Missionary societies, Epworth leagues and Sunday schools. The three presiding bishops, Bishop W. B. Murray, Bishop C. V. W. Darlington and Bishop W. B. Beauchamp all have helped.

The annual conference meets in Wesley Memorial church, here November 10. There were 17,581 North Georgia Methodists who gave five-year pledges for $741,000, Dr. Dempsey said.

Regimental Parade To Be Held Regularly At Fort McPherson

Regimental parades of the 22d Infantry will be held the first and third Friday in each month on the parade grounds at Fort McPherson, it was announced Wednesday by Captain David E. Barrett, of the 22d Infantry. The first parade in the month will be mounted, it was announced. First call will be sounded at 4:50 o'clock, followed by assembly and adjutant's call at five-minute intervals, Captain Barrett said.

LAWYER'S STATEMENT CAUSES NEW TRIAL

Because the court did not rebuke the attorney for the plaintiff when he introduced alleged irrelevant and highly prejudicial matter, the state court of appeals Wednesday granted a new trial in the case of the Southern Railway company v. H. S. Gentle, Gentle, a brakeman and employee of the Southern Railway company, sued the railroad for $50,000 for injuries to his right hand, received while he was engaged in coupling freight cars at Luth, Ga. He was awarded a verdict for $17,500 in Hall county superior court at Gainesville. The case was appealed by the railway company on the ground that Gentle's attorney, although withdrawing it immediately afterwards, made a statement in court that was highly irrelevant and highly prejudicial to the rights of the defendant in the case.

SUTTON TO SPEAK AT LEAGUE RALLY

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta public schools, will be principal speaker at the Inman Park Methodist church next Sunday night at 6:30 o'clock in an Inman Park Epworth league rally.

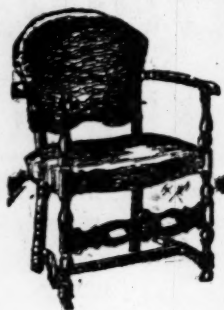

A special speaking and musical program has been arranged in connection with the rally, it was announced by Miss Margaret Conley, chairman of the program committee.

Brilliant Dinner at Biltmore Honors Debutantes of 1926-27

The Debutantes of 1926-27, a coterie of attractive young girls, were formally presented to society at a brilliant dinner given Wednesday evening at the Atlanta Biltmore with Holland B. Jenkins as host, the occasion marking the first of the many elaborate and outstanding entertainments to be given in compliment to this contingent of debs.

Leads Grand March

Miss Isabelle Breitenbucher, president of the Debutante club, and Edwin Thompson led the grand march at 8:30 o'clock, a feature which heralded the approach of the season's buds.

The oblong table, exquisite in its elegant appointments, was placed on a platform at the eastern end of the beautiful Georgian ballroom. Palms, ferns and tall baskets filled with rich green foliage formed the handsome background. The table represented an old-fashioned garden with Japanese pergolas covered with roses, budleas, pastel shaded dahlias, lilies of the valley and maidenhair fern. Placed at intervals were five dolls dressed in crinoline effect of Dresden-shaded flowers representing the ante-bellum debutante of 1860, a striking contrast to the attractive group of present-day buds wearing the most modern imported ballroom gowns, each costume bespeaking the touch of the French designer. Hand-painted place cards also representing an old-fashioned girl marked each guest's place. Gold dainties were presented each debutante as a souvenir, while their handsome escorts were given gold pencils.

Debutantes and Escorts

Seated at the table were the members of the club and their escorts

Handsome Costumes

Miss Isabelle Breitenbucher was crowned in rose colored georgette trimmed in crystals. She wore a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Sara Hurt wore pink georgette beaded in crystals and rhinestones. Miss Henrietta Mikell wore flesh-colored beaded chiffon self-trimmed. Miss Anne Lane Newell was crowned in green chiffon.

Miss Elizabeth Phillips' gown was pale yellow sateen made bouffant style, with which she wore a corsage of orchids and lilies.

Miss Martha Ridley wore pink taffeta, made bouffant style, trimmed in French bows of blue.

Miss Jeannette Bailey wore blue georgette beaded in crystal beads.

Miss Rosa Harbin, of Rome, wore red chiffon beaded in rhinestone.

Miss Mary Jenigan was crowned in pink beaded georgette with a corsage of sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

Miss Mary McCarty wore apple green satin trimmed in rhinestones.

Miss Mary Rhorer wore yellow georgette beaded in pastel shaded beads.

Miss Middleton's Gown

Miss Mary Middleton's gown was of apricot chiffon, fashioned with circular skirt and basque waist, and she wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids and valley lilies.

Miss Virginia Torrence wore flesh georgette beaded in pearls and crystals.

Miss Runa Erwin was crowned in yellow satin beaded in crystal beads.

Miss Yolande Gwin wore white georgette trimmed in silver and a corsage of orchids and valley lilies.

Miss Idolene Lewman wore black net over gold cloth beaded and embroidered in red roses.

Miss Clara Belle King wore old-fashioned model made bouffant style.

Mrs. Turner To Entertain At Legislative Tea

Mrs. G. L. Turner, chairman of legislation for the West End Civic club, will entertain the members of her committee Friday afternoon at the annual citizenship tea to be held at the Atlanta Woman's club on Peachtree street.

This committee will sponsor and support constructive legislative measures during the year, particularly those looking toward "good citizenship."

Mrs. Jesse M. Manry, the popular vice president of the club, will act as co-chairman to Mrs. Turner. Other members of the committee include Mrs. H. A. Watts, Mrs. F. G. Falken-hain and Mrs. B. W. Bird.

The entire skirt was made of tiny ruffles of cream colored lace made with a hoop skirt.

Miss Elizabeth Little wore flesh-colored satin made bouffant style, trimmed in French flowers.

Miss Frances Floyd wore a French model of blue made bouffant style with a cord velvet giraffe. Her flowers were orchids and valley lilies.

Miss Sara Smith wore white taffeta trimmed in old rose roses.

This colorful affair, the first one honoring the debutantes, inaugurated a new social custom, as in previous years their initial appearance was always made at the colorful Halloween ball.

Mrs. Langeloth Honored

Mrs. Don Pardee entertained a party in compliment to Mrs. Valeria Langeloth, of New York, the guest of former Governor and Mrs. John Marshall Slaton. Covers were placed for Mrs. Langeloth, former Governor and Mrs. Slaton, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson, Sr., Mrs. Samuel Luman, John Ashley Jones and Dr. E. G. Ballenger.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Floyd, Alfred Floyd and Harold Fuller were to-guests.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Gwin and Mr. and Mrs. L. D. T. Quimby were in a party.

Mr. and Mrs. George Breitenbucher had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. D. I. Peter.

Cecil Rosemale, of London, Eng-land, had as his guests Miss Pricilla Barnard, of Rochester, N. Y.; Miss Jean Lampton and William Harvey.

In a party were Miss Margaret Whitman, Miss Elizabeth Whittam, Albert H. Lakin, of New York, Mar-shall Warren, of Emporia, Kan., and Robert Hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde King enter-tained a party of friends.

Techwood Circle Association Meets.

Techwood Circle association had its regular meeting Saturday evening, Oc-tober 2. The Griffith Spanish orche-stron under the leadership of Mr. Grif-fith and Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs, gave selections. Mrs. Knox Ramsey gave several readings.

Mayor-elect L. N. Ragsdale was pre-sented to the association and spoke a few words.

At this meeting a school commit-tee was appointed and the association went on record as condemning and criticizing the deplorable conditions under which Atlanta schools are op-erated. It is hoped to cooperate with other civic organizations toward cor-recting these conditions and putting the school department under such au-thority as to insure for Atlanta chil-dren as good educational facilities as can be had.

The association meets at Daniel O'Keefe Junior High school the first Saturday evening of each month. Nomination of officers to be elected in December will be held at the No-vember meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Raymond Johnson will entertain their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Shriner, of Cincinnati, Ohio, at a bridge party Saturday evening, October 9, at East Lake Country club. Advice to Expectant Mothers

"I ADVISE all expectant moth-ers to use Mother's Friend," writes Mrs. Wesley Miller, Hudson, Mich. "I have had nine children. With my first three I suffered for 24 hours. Beginning with the fourth I used Mother's Friend and was sick only 15 minutes. Since then I have had five and was only sick about 10 minutes with each."

Mother's Friend is the formula of an eminent physician and has been a life blessing to thousands of ex-pectant mothers for over three generations. It daily, externally, soothes the nerves and muscles as month follows month. Finally it makes childbirth a joy!

The mothers who praise Mother's Friend the most are those who did not use it with their first baby but through its use with the second, were able to realize its almost unbelievable results.

Insist on Mother's Friend—the same as used by our mothers and grandmothers—don't wait—start using to-day—and meanwhile write Bradford Regulator Co., Dept. 34, Atlanta, Ga., for free valuable booklet "Motherhood and the Coming Baby" (sent in plain en-velope). It tells how Mother's Friend can help during expectation and at childbirth. This booklet also tells you many other things you want to know. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all druggists—everywhere.

Chosen Models As Shown
In Vogue and Harper's Bazaar

$35

There has been a transformation on our second floor—women have sensed it—and are reacting to it in a most gratifying way. It is now visible, no longer an intangible sort of thing to be instinctively felt.

Take these Tailored Frocks at $35 as an example.

They combine, as we know it has never been combined before, a new degree of style excellence, a new quality of Fabrics and a new standard of making. The obvious result are Frocks far and above the commonplace.

Popularly priced that all women may enjoy them—yet they have the unqualified endorsement of Vogue and Harper's Bazaar, which means the unqualified endorse-ment of smartly dressed women the world over.

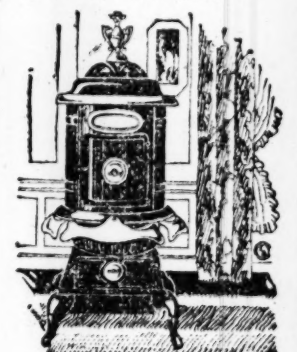

That we can offer them at many dollars below what Frocks of equal quality and charm readily bring in At-lanta is but another evidence of the transformation of which we have spoken.

We have tried to tell the story simply, leaving the usage of descriptive adjectives a privilege for you to enjoy.

Montgomery-Mayes Wedding Is Lovely Event in Marietta, Ga.

A brilliant event of Wednesday evening with cream lace. Inserts of the same lovely lace ran up into the skirt giving a charming effect. A bow of turquoise blue velvet ribbon was caught to the back at the waist line with a rhinestone buckle. Their flowers were of deep pink roses, tied with yellow satin ribbon, and tulle. Miss Mary Wallace, a cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor, and the matron of honor was Mrs. Charles Tillman.

The church was most artistically decorated, a color note of green and white being carried out. The altar was banked with palms, ferns, and foliage plants. The choir loft and balcony were garlanded with southern sinlax, and feathery asparagus fern.

The ushers entered the church first and took their places at the altar. They were Campbell Wallace, Thomas L. Wallace, Fred Morris, and Ralph W. Northcutt.

The attendants entered down the center aisle in couples. First came two bridesmaids, followed by two groomsmen.

The bridesmaids were Miss Hazel Mayes, of Fitzgerald, sister of the groom; Miss Jean Williams, of Atlanta; Miss Ruth Womelsdorf, of Marietta; Miss Margaret McNell, Miss Elizabeth Stephens, Miss Julia Anderson, Miss Emma Katherine Anderson, and Miss R. L. Hayes.

The groomsmen were Wallace Montgomery, of Marietta; Charles Tillman, of Marietta; R. L. Hayes, of Marietta; John Cummings, of Rome; Dennis Hill, of Rome; R. D. Cole, of Atlanta; Rip Evansworth, of Atlanta; Eugene Bryant, of Greenville, S. C.

The bridesmaids wore gowns fashioned alike of gold colored satin made with basque waist, and bouffant skirts.

Prominent Visitor At Fort McPherson Is Honor Guest

Captain and Mrs. D. E. Barnett entertained at a bridge supper Wednesday evening at their quarters at Fort McPherson in honor of Mrs. Walter McMillan, of Spartanburg, S. C., the guest of Captain and Mrs. Furman Hardee. Following a game of bridge, supper was served at the individual tables. Early fall flowers were used throughout the reception rooms. Invited to meet the honor guest were Miss Jean Kendrick, Lieutenant and Mrs. Sam Pursell, Lieutenant and Mrs. Cyril Faine, Lieutenant and Mrs. Traywick, Captain and Mrs. Hardee and Allen Gill.

News of Army People.
Lieutenant Arthur Benedict left Wednesday by airplane for Philadelphia, Pa., to participate in the army championship golf tournament at the Huntington Valley Country club in Philadelphia. Lieutenant Benedict recently won the fourth corps area golf championship title, playing at Fort Benning, Ga.

Mrs. Mabel Fortner returned Tuesday to Fort McPherson after a four months' visit in Seattle, Wash.

Mrs. Kibler To Sponsor

I Am My Own Hair Dresser

By Edna Wallace Hopper
That curl, that fluff, that sheen? My hair are due to no expert care. I never go to a hairdresser, never have a Marcel wave. My work on the stage allows no time for that. I simply apply twice weekly a hair dress which great experts made for me. I call it my Wave and Sheen. To that my curly, abundant, glossy hair is due. It will be a joy to you—I promise that. My guarantee comes with each bottle. Unless your hair beauty is doubled in an hour, I'll return the cost.

All toilet counters supply Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen at 75c per bottle. Go try it now.

Slams Salaams

TIMES CHANGE. Manners must. The radicals and the pessimists would apply this sequence farther. They would make it apply not merely to manners, but to the fundamental human relations, like marriage.

"Look around you"—how often are you thus admonished—"and see how few among the married couples of your own acquaintance are genuinely happy."

Well, perhaps, I am a bit choosy about my friends, or lucky; but most of the husbands and wives I know best are so dependent on each other—and what better state could be achieved?—that they are not even allowed to fall into—what you could call them apart with a crowd. Of well, of course, if Providence did remove one or the other from this earthly scene! But that's another story.

"THE permanence of marriage—tut, tut!" the pessimists will say with scorn. And they call it pessimistic that those of holding together who no longer care for each other.

G. K. Chesterton discovered before I did, by the way, how astonishingly familiar the extreme modernists are with the customs and manners of the people of this world's extreme youth; not those far enough back to hang by their tails from trees, but those who had "descended" to live in caves and to find their sport life, the gentlemen in clubbing their ladies and the ladies in being clubbed.

This, perhaps, is a digression, and yet, perhaps, not, to that incident in the recent mine disaster in Michigan, in which the first man out of 43 to be rescued after five days' entombment asked the nurse on the rescue car to be allowed to "wash up before seeing his wife," who was in the waiting crowd.

Was this humble miner with first thought of respect for his helpmate, even at the moment of escape from death, some youth with the glamour of a honeymoon undimmed?

On the contrary, the wife he must "wash up" to greet is the mother of his eight children, the youngest a baby of 2 1/2 years, wrapped in a shawl in her arms, and the oldest a young man of 18, by her side.

AND what say the pessimists to this?

"O yes, you find such instances among people like that—people who are still simple-minded, primitive, who are in civilization, but not of it; and so are spared experience of civilization's complexities."

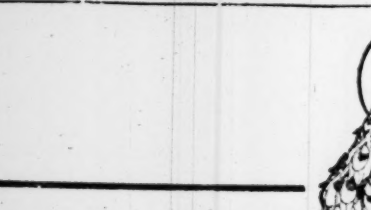

Well, if this be simplicity of mind, primitiveness; this attitude of joy and respect, outliving all the years of toil and hardship inevitable in the life of a miner and his wife, clinging into the world and rearing eight children.

CANDLER BETTER DOCTORS REPORT LATE WEDNESDAY
The condition of Asa G. Candler, Sr., Atlanta philanthropist, who has been critically ill at the Wesley Memorial hospital for the past two months, showed marked improvement Wednesday late, according to physicians.

It was reported that his condition is considered better than at any time during his confinement of the past two months.

Mr. Candler suffered a partial stroke of paralysis more than two weeks ago and since then much anxiety has been felt for his recovery.

New Charter Plans Explained by Women In Public Statement
In order to clear up certain misunderstandings regarding the proposed council-manager charter for Atlanta, the league of woman voters Wednesday issued a statement giving correct information of the plan.

Recently a petition signed by the required number of registered voters to bring about an election on the proposed new charter, was secured. Proper fire and police protection is provided for in the new charter by including amendments passed at the last session of the legislature, while provisions of the new charter regarding sewer assessments are the same as in the old charter, it was stated.

The city water works cannot be sold under the new charter, as section 212 of the council-manager charter provides, "The city shall have no power to sell, lease, exchange or otherwise dispose of its present or any future water works system."

The petition calling for an election will not be pressed at present as an organization of citizens to sponsor the charter is being formed, the election to be called and campaign plans decided when the organization is perfected, the statement of the league sets forth.

The election is to be held prior to the 1927 meeting of the legislature.

The modern housewife who wants up-to-date and distinctive furniture for her home will find at the store of Stephen Philibosian, Inc., the very latest in home furnishings and best of all will find such merchandise at prices far lower than she expects to pay.

The policy of this store to sell only high quality merchandise at prices much lower than they could afford to sell the same goods if they were operating a terms store.

Another unusual feature of this store is the fact that they never conduct a special sale. New merchandise is priced low in the beginning and there is never a concession to anyone from this mark.

Prospective buyers of furniture, rugs, or draperies will make a mistake not to visit this store before making their purchases.

Not only are they assured here of the very latest vogue in home furnishings but the very substantial savings in price is most attractive.—(adv.)

BIG FLORIDA HOTELS EXPECT FULL SEASON

Miami and the other Florida resort points which suffered in the recent storm will be able to accommodate as many tourists as ever before during the coming winter, according to Assistant General Passenger Agent J. C. Beam, of the Southern railway system, who has just returned to Atlanta after a survey of the entire storm area.

"It is a remarkable fact," said Mr. Beam, "that comparatively small damage was done hotels and apartment houses, and tourists who visit Miami this winter will feel hardly any effects of the storm."

"The Royal Palm hotel was unroofed and suffered some damage from water, but repair work has been started with a large force and the hotel will be fully repaired and ready for guests on the opening day, January 1, 1927. Several new hotels and apartment houses have been completed this summer which will increase the capacity of the city to house tourists over last winter. The larger year-round hotels have all been repaired and are now open."

Ready for Guests.
"The strictly winter hotels, both in Miami and Miami Beach, will be ready to receive guests on their regular opening dates. Coral Gables was particularly fortunate, there being little damage to buildings, trees or shrubbery. Repair work on the hotels and apartment houses is also progressing rapidly in the Hollywood, Dania and Fort Lauderdale sections, and they will be ready for guests by the opening of the season."

Minor Damage Done.
"In Tampa, St. Petersburg, Sarasota, Fort Myers and the Manatee section I found only minor damage to hotels and buildings, although there was considerable damage to orange groves and crops. The Lakeland, Orlando and Winter Haven section was not affected."

"Railroads handled free 7,000 refugees to their homes in all parts of the United States. These were largely the women and children of the families of laborers whose frail homes were destroyed. The men stayed in Florida, as there is plenty of work for them, and it is believed that their families will return as soon as their homes can be repaired or rebuilt and living conditions improved."

"After making a careful survey of the situation, I am convinced that the tourist travel this year will be equal to as good as last year, and I have recommended to our management that we go ahead with our proposed program, which contemplates improved service over that in effect last winter."

Distinctive Example of New Empire Colonial Hall Cabinet at Philibosian's

The photograph taken at the Store of Stephen Philibosian, Inc., shows a new Empire Colonial Hall Cabinet recently received and now on display at this beautiful store at 551 Peachtree St.

This large cabinet, artistic in design, is of handsomely carved mahogany and is especially adaptable for use as a corner of the living room or it may be used to advantage in the dining room for china and silver.

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

Fernando Cortez

By DR. ELLIOTT SHORING,
NOTED HISTORIAN

FIVE YEARS PASSED RAPIDLY BY. IN 1509, DON DIEGO COLUMBUS, SON OF CHRISTOPHER, WAS SENT TO SANTO DOMINGO AS VICEROY. HE WAS A JUST MAN AND RULED THE INDIES WISELY. IN 1511, HE DISPATCHED VELASQUEZ TO COMPLETE THE CONQUEST OF CUBA. WITH VELASQUEZ SAILED CORTES AND LAS CASAS. THE NAMES OF THESE MEN ARE INSEPARABLY CONNECTED WITH THE GREAT EVENTS ATTENDANT UPON THE CONQUEST OF AMERICA.

CORTES WAS NOW TWENTY-SIX. HE WAS STILL THE HAPPY-GO-LUCKY ADVENTURER WHO CAME TO AMERICA IN SEARCH OF GOLD AND GLORY. HE HAD FOUND NEITHER ONE NOR THE OTHER, YET HE SEEMED CONTENT. AND AFTER THE INDIANS WERE PACIFIED (BY EXTERMINATION) CORTES TOOK WHAT LANDS AND SLAVES AS WERE HIS SHARE AND IS ALLUDED TO BY AN HISTORIAN OF THAT DAY AS A RESPECTABLE "HIDALGO" (A LOWER CLASS NOBLEMAN). SAN DIEGO WAS FOUNDED IN CUBA IN 1515 AND CORTES MADE ALCALDE (JUDGE).

FOLLOWING DON DIEGO COLUMBUS TO SANTO DOMINGO, HE HAD COME A NUMBER OF SPANISH LADIES IN SEARCH OF HUSBANDS WITH MONEY. WITHOUT REGARD TO MERIT OR ANCESTRY, SOME OF THESE FOLLOWED VELASQUEZ TO CUBA. ONE OF THESE WAS A LOVELY WOMAN, CATALINA PACHECO. CORTES HAD MET HER IN SANTO DOMINGO AND HAD PROBABLY PLEDGED HIMSELF TO HER FOR SHE CERTAINLY HAD A CLAIM UPON HIM IN SANTO DOMINGO.

SHE DESIRED THAT CORTES MARRY HER IN ACCORDANCE WITH HIS PLEDGE. CORTES, ALWAYS FICKLE, WAS UNWILLING TO GIVE UP THE CAREFREE, IRRESPONSIBLE LIFE HE HAD HITHERTO ENJOYED. HOWEVER, HE WAS FORCED TO MARRY THE FAIR CATALINA BY GOVERNOR VELASQUEZ. CORTES RESENTED THIS INTERFERENCE OF HIS OLD FRIEND VELASQUEZ, BUT LATER BOASTED THAT HE WAS "AS WELL PLEASED WITH THE FAIR CATALINA AS IF SHE HAD BEEN THE DAUGHTER OF A DUCHESS."

Joseph Smith and Mormonism.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

DURING VAN BUREN'S ADMINISTRATION A NEW RELIGIOUS SECT KNOWN AS MORMONS CREATED MUCH INTEREST. THEIR DOCTRINE WAS CONTAINED IN THE BOOK OF MORMON WHICH JOSEPH SMITH, THEIR "PROPHET", CLAIMED TO HAVE DUG UP UNDER DIVINE DIRECTION.

SMITH WENT ABOUT PREACHING AND WON MANY CONVERTS TO MORMONISM. HE ESTABLISHED MISSIONS IN OHIO AND MISSOURI BUT MEETING WITH OPPOSITION THERE MOVED WITH HIS FOLLOWERS IN 1840 TO ILLINOIS WHERE HE FOUNDED THE CITY OF NAUVOO ON THE MISSISSIPPI.

THE RAPID GROWTH OF MORMONISM BROUGHT TO IT ADVERSTY FOR SMITH. CONTROVERSIES AND FACTIONS AROSE AMONG HIS FOLLOWERS AND HIS INCREASING POLITICAL POWER MADE HIM MANY ENEMIES AMONG THE NON-MORMONS. © McClure Newspaper Syndicate

IN 1844 SOME OF HIS CONGREGATION BROUGHT CERTAIN CHARGES AGAINST SMITH. WHILE HE WAS AWAITING TRIAL A MOB OF HIS ENEMIES GATHERED, ATTACKED THE JAIL AND KILLED HIM. TOMORROW—EXODUS OF THE MORMONS.

FLOODS INCREASE IN ILLINOIS ZONE

Beardstown, Ill., October 6.—(AP)—Water from two broken levees made Beardstown an island tonight, entirely surrounded by flood tides and with no avenue left open, except a railroad over which trains are being operated through six inches of water.

The torrents of Lost creek, which burst a levee Monday, advanced late today and met the overflow of the Illinois river at the Beardstown Springfield highway, where water tonight was six inches deep. The island thus formed is about three miles wide at its widest point.

Two hundred are homeless tonight and quartered in tents provided by the Salvation Army and the Illinois national guard.

The funeral of the flood's only casualty to date will be held tomorrow when services are conducted for Mrs. C. E. Soule, wife of the city health officer, who died last night of pneumonia following exposure. The body will be taken by train to Byron, Ill., for burial. It is impossible to get from the city to the cemetery.

The Illinois river reached a stage tonight of 24 feet 11 inches, a rise of more than six inches, today and only two inches short of the record rise of 1922. Forecasters say the stream will stand at 25.5 feet by tomorrow.

The 2 Rules

for using make-up safely on your skin

By NORMA TALMADGE

Do this if powder or rouge ever touches your face. Note then the great difference that comes

COUNTLESS women make the great mistake of letting make-up remain on their faces over night. Poor complexion thus often comes. Yet, used rightly, powders, rouge and make-up will not injure. The rules for make-up as used by women of the stage and urged by skin authorities are these: just careful cleansing of make-up accumulations from the pores with the gentle lather of Palmolive Soap in the following way:

RULE 1

Cleanse the Skin First
Never apply powder or rouge to an unclean, dusty skin, or to an oily skin. That is ruinous. It results in that artificial made-up look you dislike. Dampen a cloth in warm water, work up a mild lather of Palmolive and go over your face lightly with it, then rinse with cold water... then apply your make-up. Just see the difference this will make.

RULE 2

Never Let Make-Up Stay On Over Night
Powders, rouge and all cosmetics have a tendency to clog the pores... often to enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. Never let make-up stay on over night. This is all-important, a fundamental in correct skin care. Follow these rules. You'll never look made-up. Your skin will be soft and lovely. And as the months roll by, you'll need fewer cosmetics. Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same.

BE SURE YOU GET THE REAL PALMOLIVE

Remember that before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your faces." Soaps then were judged too harsh. Palmolive is a beauty soap made for one purpose only: to safeguard your complexion. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Millions of pretty skins prove its effectiveness beyond all doubt.

It costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Note what one week of its use brings you. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois.

JAP TROOPS RUSH
TO AID KOREANSBY RODERICK MATHESON.
(Copyright, 1932, by The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Tokio, October 7.—A serious situation is arising in Manchuria along the Korean border where the Chinese and Japanese are rushing troops, machine guns and Red Cross detachments. Throughout Manchuria adjoining Korea are some 1,500,000 Korean families, principally farmers, who are Japanese subjects. The Chinese permitted these to take up land which many cultivated for 20 years.

Recently Mukden issued a repudiation of that section of the famous 21 demands permitting Japanese subjects to lease agricultural land, since which the trouble over the Korean farmers has been developing.

Now the harvesting is beginning. The Chinese have dispatched troops either to confiscate the crops as illegally grown or impose drastic taxes, payable immediately in cash. The Japanese consul at Harbin has protested vehemently, but in vain.

Yesterday Japanese detachments with armored troops and motorcycles started up the Yalu river, while 200 special train from Mukden. All garrison troops in Manchuria have been ordered held in readiness for action, while the troops in Korea are ready to move should the Chinese show unexpected activities.

Reports from Mukden through the Japanese state several clashes between Chinese and Japanese troops have occurred with casualties on both sides.

New York Adds
Extra Million
To Pay Employees

New York, October 6.—Deciding, after wading through the reports of committees that his hired hands are being mistreated in their pay envelopes, Father Knickerbocker has set aside an additional million dollars this year... to be slipped into their pockets. City employees now can look forward to a prosperous 1932, while they doubt municipal paint, drive municipal nails and screw bulbs in municipal sockets. Along with the newly approved $1,000,000 there has been requested for some time the sum of $1,025,000 for the same benign purpose.

The first $1,000,000 of this was set aside by Mayor John F. Hylan while in the throes of preparation for a reelection campaign, and there were those who hinted that the philanthropy was designed as a sop to faithful Hylan workers. But the Hylan banner rode to no glorious victory that election day. On the contrary, the new mayor, James J. Walker, found this golden question reopening unexpectedly in his fresh official lap. And when he began distributing it a large outcry arose because it was charged, those named with the O. K. of the many leader, George W. Oviatt, led all the rest.

There has been no time for a large noise as yet about the new $1,000,000 increase, and its sponsors hope to avoid one by a "detailed report and investigation" on its distribution.

Whether it is the O. K. of the rate of union skilled mechanics is $12 a day in the schedule submitted in behalf of the Building Trades council, there are city employees who are paid less.

FRANCE TO EXPEL
ALIEN AGITATORS

Paris, October 6.—An echo of the latest attempt against the life of Premier Mussolini, of Italy, was heard in France today when Minister of the Interior Sarraut moved to end the agitation of foreign political visitors against their own countries.

A circular issued to the prefects of police, while making no direct reference to Italians, was accepted generally as applying to that class of nationals.

The recent attempt against Mussolini was planned by a young Italian living in France. The Italian premier immediately made a sharp protest against such would-be assassins being harbored by France, and said that such practices must not be permitted in the future. Newspapers of Italy gave strong endorsement to Mussolini's views.

The order to the prefects follows: "Liberty, institutions and guaranteed by our legislation cannot permit foreigners to bring to France the political struggles of their respective countries, thus endangering general tranquility by movements of violence or provocative manifestations."

"Our institutions, which call for strict justice and impartiality, are now violated by foreign groups and foreign language newspapers in France. They are engaging in violent quarrels and directing against each other a campaign of invectives, threats and insults. Many even demand expulsion of certain foreign personalities or protest in advance against such possible measures by this government."

"This agitation cannot be tolerated and must cease immediately."

HOOSIER EDITORS
GIVEN SETBACK
IN KLAN INQUIRY

Indianapolis, October 6.—Hoosier editors, investigating the alleged "super-government" set up in Indiana by the Ku Klux Klan, received another setback in their plans Wednesday night when the state prison board refused to allow them to interview D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Klan, in the state prison at Michigan City.

Stephenson is said to be ready to tell of the stranglehold which he fastened on the state government during his reign and the Republican Editorial association is attempting to force the state administration to unmanacle him. Stephenson is serving a life term for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholzer, Indianapolis social worker.

The prison board came here for a special meeting with Thomas Adams, chairman of the editorial association's committee, and ruled that Stephenson would be allowed to see only relatives or attorneys representing them.

Tell-tale Wrinkles,
Rings and Lines Removed

Restore Youthful Skin This Quick, Easy Way

No longer must a woman endure the embarrassment of flabby face muscles, lines and wrinkles, says Marie Niele, famous beauty specialist. SAVANNAH TO GET
NEXT D. OF A. MEET

Philadelphia, October 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Carrie Fankner, of Ohio, was elected national councilor of the Daughters of America at the closing session of the national council's fifth biennial convention today. Savannah, Ga., was chosen for the 1928 convention.

Several architectural plans for the proposed home for aged and indigent members of the organization were submitted by a committee, but nothing definite was decided on because of the uncertainty regarding the site.

THROUGH ADVICE OF NEIGHBOR

Woman Tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"A neighbor advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which she said helped her so much. So I bought a few bottles and tried it out. It sure helped me wonderfully. I felt much better. My work is no longer a dread to me. If I hear of any one who is troubled the way I was, I will gladly recommend the Vegetable Compound to them and I will answer any letters in regard to the same."—Mrs. Gertha Meacham, 910 Center St., Lansing, Mich.

"I had been sickly every since I was fifteen years old. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I got so I could do all my housework and I am in good health."—Mrs. Marie K. Williams, Ketchikan, Alaska.

From Michigan to Alaska, from Maine to Oregon and from Connecticut to California letters are constantly being written by grateful women recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The Compound is made from roots and herbs and has been in use for over fifty years.

Harry Deason Found
Dead at Lincolnton;
Suicide Is Verdict

Lincolnton, Ga., October 6.—(AP)—Harry Deason, of Jacksonville, Fla., was found dead near the home of his father, Dr. J. E. Deason, here today. His throat was cut. A coroner's jury later returned a verdict of death as the result of self-inflicted wounds.

Deason, who had been in ill health for several months, recently had come here from his father's summer home in north Georgia, apparently in better health. He is survived by his father, two brothers and three sisters. Funeral services probably will be held here Friday.

Rates on Workman's
Compensation Law
May Be Increased

Proposed increases in rates on workman's compensation insurance in Georgia, which were approved by General William A. Wright, state comptroller, in a decision in the case in which he at the same time reduced the overhead expense 9 per cent, will be placed before three federal judges for consideration Friday.

In allowing the gross increase General Wright stipulated that the reduction of 9 per cent be made in the overhead charges which the companies declined to accept. The companies carried the rate to the federal court and it will be heard by three federal judges Friday.

YOU know how it is. You call on a certain member of a certain family and you take her a box of BELLE-CAMP. Now no matter how well you like the rest of the family, there are times when, well—you don't call on the whole family. But that box of candy is an attraction that brings some of them in too frequently for another piece. Here's the remedy. Take two boxes of BELLE-CAMP. One for the family and one for her. Boy, it works like a charm. Increases your good will with the family and prevents possibility of inopportune intrusion.

INSTALLMENT XVI.

A COMFORTING PICTURE.

Goddard nodded, an expression of distaste settling over his good looking face.

"I know Jack Normand as well as I want to," he said. "He's about as perfect a specimen of a bounder as you can find, and there's hardly a decent house in town that will take him in any more."

"This one will, and it's still fairly decent. He plays the violin beautifully," Dorinda suavely went on. "And so far as the decent houses go, you know, I'd have trouble getting into most of them myself."

David frowned. He hated to have her talk like that. Then he flushed again, for she was talking on.

"There's another thing you must remember. Nothing in our bargain allows you to criticize my other guests or question who I have in my house. Please don't forget that again."

He hit his lip. He was furious. Her guests! Her house! That's the way it was going to be from now on. A nice position he had put himself into. He met her eyes.

"All right," he said quietly, but with the sudden setting of the jaw she had noticed once or twice before. "But there's something I want you to remember: I'm not going to be snubbed, either before folks or when we're alone. And don't press too much on the 'my house' and 'my guests' after I get here. They'll supposedly be mine, too, whether I like it or not, and it isn't a part of my plan to be stepped on by you or your friends. That's straight talk."

"Say, Goddard, what the devil did you come here for, anyway?"

She nodded. "Two quarrels in half an hour is something of a record. Now go and get ready for the party," she added sardonically. "I can see that it's going to be a harmonious one."

Then her fair-mindedness asserted itself. "You are right," she admitted. "We've certainly got to treat each other pretty before other folks, so we might as well keep in practice when we're alone."

For Annie's benefit she went with him to the hall and chatted with him while he put on the overcoat the impressed maid hastened to offer. By way of underlining the situation she even stood before a glass panel of the front door and watched him walk down the driveway. But when he had vanished from sight and she returned to the library she took with her an unpleasant weight of foreboding.

What had she brought upon herself? Dispassionately she admitted that she knew little about Goddard, save that his reputation as a promising and popular young man was well established. He might have all sorts of unpleasant qualities not obvious to the eyes of casual friends. In a way she was putting herself into his power. He had insisted that her plan was a crazy one. He had agreed to it only when she had appealed to his cupidity and when she had guaranteed that the marriage would have the outward aspects of a real one, so that he would not suffer in the eyes of the community.

Probably she had made a blunder—a colossal one, far reaching in its possibilities of trouble. If she had, she had—and that was all there was to it. Dorinda was no quitter. She sank deeper into the big chair where she had dropped and tried to find reassurance in the memory of Goddard's self-conscious, small boy face when he talked of his wardrobe. It was a comforting picture, and under its influence and that of the quiet room she forgot her apprehensions in a doze.

As he dressed for dinner that night in the "third floor back," which suddenly began to seem such a safe refuge, Goddard was going through his own ordeal, considering his own position.

He was a man walked in by the unknown, and he surveyed himself with incredulous horror. He had gone into this thing, at the finish of his interview with Miss Maxwell, because she had deliberately played on his sympathies. But he was no hypocrite, and no self-deceiver. He knew that he would not have gone in, even with those chords of sympathy vibrating as they had done, if his ambitions had not been served by the project and his imagination fired by the adventure. He had remembered, too, the futility of Orson Hatch as a guardian. Hatch would sit up at times and take the girl to task, but Hatch was temperamentally incapable of any sustained effort in her behalf. And if some crisis in her life occurred while Hatch was eating his dinner, action on the crisis would have to wait. Goddard told himself he might have withstood the girl's appeal. He might have withstood the bribe and the adventure and the thought of Hatch. He had not been able to withstand all four, and now he was getting what he deserved for being such a weakling. Very well, then, let him take it and not yowl.

Which conclusion, by an interesting coincidence, was very like the one the lady in the case had reached two hours earlier.

He had especially dreaded the ordeal of dinner, yet when he was seated at the Maxwell table, at the right of his hostess, and with Miss Perkins on his other side, he began to hope it might not be as serious as he had pictured it. Of course, there were some bad moments. The first had come when his fellow guests had given themselves a perceptible interval to recover from their stupefaction at seeing him among them. Indeed, the faint had professed himself unable to believe his eyes, and had repeatedly circled David, drawing the attention of the rest to interesting points of resemblance between this pilgrim and the town's model young man, who of course could not possibly appear in such low company. Also, during the dinner, Bailey had felt called upon to check several of Bryant's remarks with a reproachful "Hush, Jimmie! Goddard is in our midst," and to follow this by an outburst of what he called "one minute talks on edifying topics," such as the architecture of the new cathedral, the work of the Boy Scouts, and—this last a fine, impassioned flight—the daily deed of kindness which a young man like Goddard undoubtedly felt himself bound to perform.

"Today he has set out to elevate us," he announced. "And it is for us to see to it that he's as pure when I take him home tonight as he is now. Kitty, you've got to help. Promise me that every time Jim opens his mouth you will put some food into it before he can speak."

It was all very foolish, but it was more or less amusing nonsense, and the pilgrim took it good humoredly, realizing that there was no sting in Bailey's badinage. The food served was excellent—a detail which impressed him, as to which his fellow guests seemed indifferent. No one except himself and the hostess really ate anything. Much more strangely, none of them, save Jack Normand, drank too much. Chad, abstracted David's wine glasses with ostentatious care and ordered milk and a lily for him, but Goddard retrieved a glass and drank some excellent claret with an enjoyment only slightly blurred by Chad's subsequent careful study of him and his shocked insistence that the town's model young man was overcome by alcohol.

"Why do you people call yourselves Black Butterflies?" Goddard asked, to change the subject.

"Why Mohawk Indians?" Chad countered. Then he felt pity for this newcomer. "I suppose it's because we're as black as we're painted," he cheerfully ended.

With the suddenness characteristic of the butterflies, Chad's mood changed.

"Say, Goddard, what the devil did you come here for, anyway?"

he demanded.

"To see Miss Maxwell," Goddard admitted, and added that he didn't mind Bailey being there, too, if he didn't make himself too much of a nuisance. Chad stared at him thoughtfully.

"Just the same, I'd like to know what really brought about this slumming expedition," he muttered.

No one, Goddard observed, paid any attention to Jack Normand. Apparently, like David, he did not belong. But for that matter no member of the odd trio paid any real attention to any one else at the table. At intervals the voice of each discoursed on some topic of individual interest, addressing the world at large.

PORTUGAL OFFERS COLONY TO ITALY

Rome, October 6.—It is reported in a reliable banking source that negotiations have been concluded whereby Portugal, for a consideration of one billion lire, approximately $38,000,000, will cede to Italy the African colony of Angola.

Italy is expected to use the newly acquired territory for colonization. Official announcement of the deal is expected October 28, anniversary of the date of the fascist march on Rome.

Official confirmation of the report is lacking.

Premier Mussolini, outspoken in his demands that Italy must have room for colonial expansion, would gain by the reported deal with Portugal a territory of 517,150 square miles in West Africa, having a population of approximately 2,500,000.

Angola, which was formerly known as Dongo or Amboide, extends from the mouth of the Congo river to the River Cuenca. Years ago it was notorious because of its slave trade.

FIRE TRUCKS FIGURE IN THREE ACCIDENTS

Two accidents in which city fire trucks figured Wednesday brought the total to three within two days' time. Both accidents Wednesday were caused by collisions with street cars, and in one at Woodward avenue and Kelly street in the morning four firemen were injured. The second accident Wednesday night was slight, and no one was hurt. A truck from fire station No. 7 was jammed by a street car at Haynes and Nelson streets.

While answering a fire call from East Fair and Connally streets Wednesday morning four firemen attached to engine company No. 10, were severely hurt when the pump and hose truck collided with a street car at Woodward avenue and Kelly street.

Lieutenant Charles Joiner, of 405 Oakland avenue; W. A. Pope, of 363 Angier avenue; L. H. Manning, of 72 Park avenue, and R. S. Owensby, of 429 Simpson street, were hurled to the pavement.

Lieutenant Joiner was picked up by a passing motorist, M. C. Plunke, of Albany, Ga., and taken to Grady hospital and en route to the hospital his car collided with an outboard English avenue-Soldiers' Home street car at Decatur and Butler streets. The automobile was only slightly damaged but was unable to continue to the hospital and Lieutenant Joiner was taken to the hospital in another car.

Manning, driver of the fire truck, stated that he was not traveling faster than 15 miles an hour at the time of the accident and that when he attempted to stop, he could not avoid striking the street car which was stopped in the middle of the block, he said. Owensby suffered painful bruises about the head and a fractured right arm. Pope is suffering from several fractured ribs while Lieutenant Joiner also was suffering from fractured ribs and a broken left leg.

No one on the street car in charge of F. E. Nix, of 687 Woodward avenue, was reported injured though the car was damaged.

Atlanta Women Wear Best Shoes in World, Expert Says

Never in the history of the world have shoes been more beautiful than they are now, says William Sutton, general manager of Sutton & Wilsont, shoe retailers of Alabama street.

Mr. Sutton, who has been identified with the shoe industry for nearly 30 years, having for many years been with some of the largest manufacturers and wholesale firms in the country.

try in the making and shipping of shoes before going in business for himself, is probably one of the best posted shoe men in Georgia and well qualified to talk on the subject of shoes.

"Some of the shoes of today," Mr. Sutton said, "are extra pretty in design and shape and nowhere in the world do the ladies wear finer shoes."

Speaking about the repair business, Mr. Sutton stated that it never was better with them than at present, more than 350 different jobs a day being done in their busy shop and 90 per cent of this being done for women and children.

or those than the ladies of Atlanta. This city is known the country over as a style center in footwear and less cheap or shabby shoes and hose is sold here than in any other large city in the country, and as America leads the world in the making of fine shoes, that means the women of Atlanta on the average wear the best shoes made."

The next important step we see in the improved shoe is the one patented by William Reesor, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who on April 1, 1919 began to make his shoes on the banks of the Ohio river.

Soon after it was discovered that hard or stone coal (anthracite) would burn if put in an enclosed iron casing if small air drafts were permitted to enter the bottom and pass out at the top.

This discovery set the best minds of the 1850's working and they began to invent various kinds and types of furnaces to burn the coal in a house and after they got out several very good ones a long came the discovery of oil with all its possibilities. As soon as good oil stoves were perfected a new force, a new light, a new light came in, called electricity and men marvelled.

With the rich man the best was a matter of convenience, with the poor man the cost was a very important factor and some went back to wood and some went back to coal, but the master minds were now busy at work on devices that would heat homes comfortably at greatly reduced costs.

Oil Burning Heating Plants Become Popular In Atlanta

Due to man's ingenuity we are living in a great age and especially does this apply to providing additional comforts to mankind.

Take the heating of homes as an illustration. No great or startling improvements over the log fire primitive man was made until a long haired fellow named Ben, Franklin, came along about 200 years ago. This Franklin party afterwards became famous for signing some kind of a paper in Philadelphia 150 years ago, but the really big thing he did was to perfect a little wood box stove, this little stove, while homely in design, became popular overnight, as it were—it could boil pots, heat skillets, bake bread and heat a room all at the same time and, being movable, could be set up where it would be the most convenient.

The next important step we see in the improved shoe is the one patented by William Reesor, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who on April 1, 1919 began to make his shoes on the banks of the Ohio river.

Soon after it was discovered that hard or stone coal (anthracite) would burn if put in an enclosed iron casing if small air drafts were permitted to enter the bottom and pass out at the top.

This discovery set the best minds of the 1850's working and they began to invent various kinds and types of furnaces to burn the coal in a house and after they got out several very good ones a long came the discovery of oil with all its possibilities. As soon as good oil stoves were perfected a new force, a new light, a new light came in, called electricity and men marvelled.

With the rich man the best was a matter of convenience, with the poor man the cost was a very important factor and some went back to wood and some went back to coal, but the master minds were now busy at work on devices that would heat homes comfortably at greatly reduced costs.

Changing To Oil.

Gas stoves and gas logs of various kinds came on the market, then in the present century automatic oil burners began to be patented and now there are several good ones on the market, then improved gas and electric stoves, some large, some very small began to appear and very lately an extraordinary good portable kerosene oil burner began to be seen in the public buildings and homes of Atlanta. Now George C. Kalb, a sheet metal contractor of 1214 Walton street is quietly changing some old worn out coal furnaces into warm heating plants in the basements of home owners, the plan being simply this. Through a new automatic device that is installed in the fire box or pot of the furnace now in use or a new one that may be put in the fuel may be turned on and as hot a fire as needed may be had. The fuel in this case is city gas and if we judge the future of this supply by what we know of its past we feel sure the home owners need have no fear that they will not always get all the "gas fuel" they want.

Automatic Control.

Mr. Kalb brings a sheet metal man of many years experience will install all of these new gas automatic heating devices in this territory. He is very enthusiastic about the great saving and convenient labor saving they will do for the average householder. As they are controlled by an automatic thermostat dial the temperatures in any room at any time can be regulated quickly to the point where it will keep the temperature in the room at the figure set on the dial.

Mr. Kalb has a crew of men now installing a new lot of galvanized iron ducts, as the metal people call them, in houses where these changes are now taking place.

Mr. Kalb, himself, is one of the county's most influential men and in addition to his metal business has some large property interests in and around Atlanta. He is an Atlanta boy and man that has made rapid progress due to giving complete satisfaction on each job he contracts for.

CARE OF THE HANDS.

Hands are said to be a better index to character than the face. It is true that the owner of roughened hands may have a far more pleasing personality than the woman with well-groomed hands. But there is no reason why the housekeeper in a well-managed home of today should have poor kept hands. Rubber gloves are a decided aid in keeping the hands in good condition while doing laundry work, dishwashing, preserving and dyeing. They should be comfortably large.

An occasional few minutes spent in giving the hands special attention will achieve excellent results. The tips of offices of the committee and he and Mrs. Perdus, the sponsor of the idea, have agreed that its prime object is to provide the excuse to have as many pleasant social gatherings as convenient. They will announce the formation of the new auxiliary and the date for the first joint social gathering in the near future.

Speaking of the banquet of the Pioneer School Boys Tuesday night, Past President Crusselle said that he has attended banquets, dinners, lunches and socials of public and private nature in Atlanta for over 50 years, but never did he see one equal to that of Tuesday for the spirit of good fellowship. More than 100 of the guests had been personal friends for from 55 to 70 years, and the good deeds and achievements of each one were well and favorably known to all.

Among those present were John S. Clarke and wife, John Corrigan and wife, Joseph Corrigan, Miss Corrigan, Mrs. A. D. McWilson, Henry Purcell and wife, H. H. Cabanis, Edward C. Peters, W. Wood, White and wife, Dr. E. L. Connolly, James Layman and wife, James L. Logan, Henry Berman, Leonard Brown, Mrs. Anthony Murphy, John C. Burchard, H. E. Brady, Dr. W. J. Mrs. E. C. Nobis sang several solos and lead the entire assembly in old time folk songs. Hugged all the old time country dances and tunes, and Mose Lindley, a colored boy, raised by Henry Berman, was in charge of the singing, giving the affair the semblance of a dinner of the days long gone by.

As the party broke up in the small hours of the morning, and Ald Lang Syne was sung, the sentiment was that the occasion would be repeated very soon.

Committees Named To Form Pioneer Schoolboys Auxiliary

BY M. D. GLEASON.

John M. Graham, newly-elected president of the Pioneer School Boys of Atlanta, announced Wednesday that a committee composed of Edward C. Peters, William E. Crusselle and James L. Logan, representing the school boys would meet with a committee of ladies, consisting of Mrs. Albert Perdus, Mrs. Fanny Banks Callaway and Mrs. Henry A. Purcell, looking to the immediate formation of a ladies' auxiliary to the organization. President Graham is a member ex-offices of the committee and he and Mrs. Perdus, the sponsor of the idea, have agreed that its prime object is to provide the excuse to have as many pleasant social gatherings as convenient. They will announce the formation of the new auxiliary and the date for the first joint social gathering in the near future.

Mrs. E. C. Nobis sang several solos and lead the entire assembly in old time folk songs. Hugged all the old time country dances and tunes, and Mose Lindley, a colored boy, raised by Henry Berman, was in charge of the singing, giving the affair the semblance of a dinner of the days long gone by.

As the party broke up in the small hours of the morning, and Ald Lang Syne was sung, the sentiment was that the occasion would be repeated very soon.

Committees Named To Form Pioneer Schoolboys Auxiliary

BY M. D. GLEASON.

John M. Graham, newly-elected president of the Pioneer School Boys of Atlanta, announced Wednesday that a committee composed of Edward C. Peters, William E. Crusselle and James L. Logan, representing the school boys would meet with a committee of ladies, consisting of Mrs. Albert Perdus, Mrs. Fanny Banks Callaway and Mrs. Henry A. Purcell, looking to the immediate formation of a ladies' auxiliary to the organization. President Graham is a member ex-

"This is the time of the year when the people are all back from their summer vacations and are now very much interested in home comforts," says J. L. Satterwhite, president and general manager of the Satterwhite Furniture store, of 292 Peachtree street.

"Everybody wants to have a cozy home and we have just the right kind of furniture to make homes cozy and comfortable looking. Due to the care the nails should be shaped properly and the nails should be polished. A cuticle antiseptic should be used to smooth away the roughness of the cuticle and to disclose the half-moons. Twisting a bit of cotton around an orange stick and dipping it into the antiseptic, the nails may be freed of the dead loose skin at the base.

"When these young folks need it we give them very liberal terms to pay for what they buy from us and that is another reason why we do such a big business with these young folks that are just starting house-keeping."

Gary's Indecision

In his interview to the effect that he was becoming more and more convinced that there is no necessity for any important slump in the business of the country, Mr. Morgan said that H. Gary adds: "I heard one of the most prominent bankers in this or any other country say a few days ago that it would be very probable that the United States would continue to be depressed during the remainder of 1928 and probably during 1927. This general opinion is expressed by many men. I express this opinion as my own which could be found."

Knowing Mr. Gary's intimate association with the Morgan firm since the formation of the steel corporation, Mr. Wall Street immediately concluded J. P. Morgan was the banker quoted.

"The fact that it is coming from him has been for months. It is a safe guess that Gary was quoting George

SAFE ATLANTA MORTGAGES

Our experience of twenty-one years in the Atlanta Mortgage Loan field, leads us to believe that a well-selected mortgage is the safest possible security for investment funds of any nature.

At present we have for sale a few such first mortgages on Atlanta property, bearing 7% and 8%. Each of these loans is secured by property which we have inspected, and we recommend the loans as safe investments. They are for five years in sums of $1,000.00 to $5,000.00, with interest payable semi-annually.

This is an exceptional opportunity for the investment of funds in a security which returns a maximum income commensurate with all requirements of safety.

A communication from investors concerning these loans would be mutually profitable and appreciated by us.

Ormiston Seen At World Series Game Is Report

Los Angeles, October 6.—(P)—A telephone call from St. Louis from C. Fellows, San Francisco newspaperman, who is attending the world series, that he saw Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive from justice in the Alamo conspiracy case, at the world series game there was received by Deputy District Attorney Joe Ryan today. At Ryan's request St. Louis police are looking for the radio man.

Ormiston, whose state alleged occupation a cottage at Carmel, Cal., with Mrs. McPherson during her disappearance last May and June, was charged with the murder of her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and several others who are alleged to have attempted to manufacture false evidence supporting Mrs. McPherson's story that she was kidnapped.

The radio operator has been sought for several months and last was reported near Chicago.

NO TRACE IS FOUND OF KENNETH ORMISTON.

St. Louis, October 6.—(P)—St. Louis police said tonight they had heard nothing of the reported discovery here of Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive from justice in the Alamo conspiracy case by F. Fellows.

TELEPHONE CALL TRACED TO MRS. McPHERSON.

BY DAN CAMPBELL.

Los Angeles, October 6.—Aimee Semple McPherson again braved the dangers of Ocean Park beach Wednesday, where on May 18, last, she claims she was spirited away by kidnappers and held captive in a desecrated but.

The famous evangelist spent the day in rest at the pleasure resort, her preliminary trial on charges of conspiring to defraud justice having been adjourned until Thursday.

Meanwhile, the district attorney's office announced evidence to prove that Mrs. McPherson sent a telegram from a telephone office at Gila, Ariz. It was reported that the Gila telephone operator had offered to testify that he sent a message for the evangelist to a man in Douglas, Ariz.

According to this information, the telegram was sent on June 15, eight days before Mr. McPherson dramatically reappeared in Aquaprieta, Mexico, where she explained her disappearance by relating a bizarre kidnapping story.

Douglas is just across the international border line from Agua Prieta and according to Douglas, the Douglas man that the sender's automobile had broken down and that she and her party would proceed to Douglas by train.

A political angle developed Wednesday when Deputy District Attorney Davis charged that the county board of supervisors had refused to replenish the fund of District Attorney Asa Keyes for carrying on his investigation. Such action would prevent the district attorney from furnishing transportation for the witnesses.

Keyes issued complaints several days ago against the board and three other high county officials, charging embezzlement of county funds, and they retaliated by charging him with illegal expenditures in the prosecution of the Kid McCoy case and the William D. Taylor murder.

May Handicap Prosecution.

The prosecution of the McPherson case will be seriously handicapped unless the board of supervisors rescinds its action, Davis declared.

TELEPHONE CALL TRACED TO MRS. McPHERSON.

BY DAN CAMPBELL.

Los Angeles, October 6.—Aimee Semple McPherson again braved the dangers of Ocean Park beach Wednesday, where on May 18, last, she claims she was spirited away by kidnappers and held captive in a desecrated but.

The famous evangelist spent the day in rest at the pleasure resort, her preliminary trial on charges of conspiring to defraud justice having been adjourned until Thursday.

Meanwhile, the district attorney's office announced evidence to prove that Mrs. McPherson sent a telegram from a telephone office at Gila, Ariz. It was reported that the Gila telephone operator had offered to testify that he sent a message for the evangelist to a man in Douglas, Ariz.

According to this information, the telegram was sent on June 15, eight days before Mr. McPherson dramatically reappeared in Aquaprieta, Mexico, where she explained her disappearance by relating a bizarre kidnapping story.

Douglas is just across the international border line from Agua Prieta and according to Douglas, the Douglas man that the sender's automobile had broken down and that she and her party would proceed to Douglas by train.

A political angle developed Wednesday when Deputy District Attorney Davis charged that the county board of supervisors had refused to replenish the fund of District Attorney Asa Keyes for carrying on his investigation. Such action would prevent the district attorney from furnishing transportation for the witnesses.
